THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS
OF
GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND
DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

PUBLISHED BY THE AUTHORITY OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY, UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS.

ON the 26th of January 1857, the Master of the Rolls submitted to the Treasury a proposal for the publication of materials for the History of this Country from the Invasion of the Romans to the Reign of Henry VIII.

The Master of the Rolls suggested that these materials should be selected for publication under competent editors without reference to periodical or chronological arrangement, without mutilation or abridgment, preference being given, in the first instance, to such materials as were most scarce and valuable.

He proposed that each chronicle or historical document to be edited should be treated in the same way as if the editor were engaged on an Editio Princeps; and for this purpose the most correct text should be formed from an accurate collation of the best MSS.

To render the work more generally useful, the Master of the Rolls suggested that the editor should give an account of the MSS. employed by him, of their age and their peculiarities; that he should add to the work a brief account of the life and times of the author, and any remarks necessary to explain the chronology; but no other note or comment was to be allowed, except what might be necessary to establish the correctness of the text.

The works to be published in octavo, separately, as they were finished; the whole responsibility of the task resting upon the editors, who were to be chosen by the Master of the Rolls with the sanction of the Treasury.

The Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury, after a careful consideration of the subject, expressed their opinion in a Treasury Minute, dated February 9, 1857, that the plan recommended by the Master of the Rolls "was well calculated for the accomplishment of this important national object, in an effectual and satisfactory manner, within a reasonable time, and provided proper attention be paid to economy, in making the detailed arrangements, without unnecessary expense."

They expressed their approbation of the proposal that each Chronicle and historical document should be edited in such a manner as to represent with all possible correctness the text of each writer, derived from a collation of the best MSS., and that no notes should be added, except such as were illustrative of the various readings. They suggested, however, that the preface to each work should contain, in addition to the particulars proposed by the Master of the Rolls, a biographical account of the author, so far as authentic materials existed for that purpose, and an estimate of his historical credibility and value.

INTRODUCTION.

THE Annales and the short Abbey Chronicle prefixed thereto, forming the contents of the present Volume, commence at about the same date,<sup>1</sup> A.D. 1421, 2, and extend, the first to 1440, the other to 1431. That they are, both of them, literary productions of the Abbey of St. Alban's, is a matter beyond doubt; the latter, the work of some<sup>2</sup> inmate of the Monastery whose name is now unknown, and probably must always remain so; the former, ascribed to the pen of John de Amundesham, or Amersham, a monk of that house. In reference to the last-named compilation, it must suffice for the present to remark, that there is sufficient evidence in the work to shew that it was written by a person who either was or had been an inmate of St. Alban's; but that John de Amundesham was the name of that person, there is perhaps at the present day no very conclusive proof:—this question must, however, of necessity be reserved for further discussion in the Introduction to the next and concluding Volume.

It has been well remarked by Mr. Luard, in his able and instructive Preface (p. lv.) to the Fourth Volume of the Annales Monastici, edited by him in the present Series, that—"The thirteenth century was certainly the " time during which the monastick Annalists produced Nature of the works contained in this and the succeeding volume.

The point at which Monastic Annals end.

<sup>2</sup> The hands (though not the style) seem to vary somewhat at times; but this probably is only consequent upon the entries being made at intervals of considerable length.

“ their best works. . . . Afterwards . . . . the “ monastick annals almost all come to an end. It is “ singular how generally this is the case about the time “ of the death of Edward I. Such compilations . . . .
 “ would be invaluable for the history of the 14th, and “ still more for that of the 15th, century. The few “ meagre entries that so many Chronicles contain, written “ all in one hand at a date long since the regularly kept “ annals of the Monastery have ceased, seem to shew “ that there was no one in the monastick body to carry “ on what had been for so long kept with such care.”

However it may have been with the beginning and middle of the 14th century, by the close of that period even these meagre and spasmodic entries in the Monastic Annals will almost invariably be found to have come to a close. For the domestic history of this country during the first 20 years of the 15th century, we have hardly any materials<sup>1</sup> beyond the pages of Walsingham's English History and his sources; and after Walsingham ends in 1422, while we have still (as in the preceding reign) abundant sources of information as to our wars with France, down to the moment<sup>2</sup> when, our hold upon Calais excepted, the English were finally expelled from that country; we have for many years, to the time of the Wars of the Roses, at all events, the very scantiest of resources, if we should desire to become even moderately well acquainted with the passing events of the day within the length and breadth of our own land.

Our paucity of materials for the domestic history of this country, in the first half of the 15th century.

Our printed materials for the history of the first ten years of the

The printed materials for our domestic history during the first ten years of the reign of Henry the Sixth, have hitherto been mainly the entries in Fabyan's Chronicle, the contents of our Rolls of Parliament and the Fœdera,

is little more than a condensation of Walsingham.

and a few fragments, perhaps, gathered by Stowe and our other early English Chroniclers from sources now forgotten. It can hardly be considered as singular, however, in spite of this paucity of materials, that the Chronicle now under notice,—the first in the present Volume,—of the first nine years of the reign of Henry the Sixth, should have been so entirely overlooked<sup>1</sup> down to the present day. The work itself is contained in a small unattractive quarto volume (MS. Harl. 3775), where it forms one of more than a dozen closely packed items,<sup>2</sup> most of them relating to St. Alban's; it is written throughout, on parchment of very inferior quality, in a cramped and minute hand, that is at all times uninviting, and occasionally all but undecipherable to even the well-practised eye; while the Latin in which the writer has clothed his entries is repeatedly found to violate the ordinary rules of grammar and orthography, words also being not unfrequently left out, and sentences left incomplete. In some few instances also, allusions are made to current events, of so faint and dubious a complexion, that it seems all but hopeless to attempt to discover with preciseness what the writer really means.<sup>3</sup>

The unknown writer of this Chronicle—the briefness of which, of all its shortcomings, is the one most to be regretted—was but a monastic Annalist at best, resident continuously, in all probability, within the walls of his Convent. <sup>1</sup> Newcome, in his History of St. Alban's, has collected a few facts from it, mostly bearing reference to the Abbey, or its august visitors. As to the general history of the day, he takes no notice of it; while its mere monastic details are dismissed in the following language:—
“ My author records many trifling events about this time; which,

“ though not interesting at present, “ might be so to the body, and at

Chronicle of Benedict of Peterborough, had long since passed, and he was known no more. And yet, from the circumstances alike of the writer's time and locality, the features of the present compilation are hardly less those of a Court Chronicle than of a Monastic one. Situate as St. Alban's was, at the end of the first day's journey from London, on the great North road, restless and ever on the move, whether for business, cabal, or amusement, as the great signally were in those days—days when England was but too bitterly experiencing the woes<sup>1</sup> denounced upon the land whose king is a child,—and popular as Abbot Whethamstede seems to have been alike with the leaders of the two great parties that were struggling for the reins of government, the Court of England ever and anon, during several successive years, was held before the narrator's eyes, and men and women of the highest station and most exalted rank were almost continuously partakers of the magnificent hospitality of the house of which he himself was an inmate. Items of information upon the current events of the day would of course flow in apace; and hence it is, that we find alike recorded in his pages the movements of the young King and his mother, the visits of the elder Queen Dowager, Johanna of Navarre, of the Protector, Humphrey Duke of Gloucester, of Henry Beaufort, Bishop of Winchester, and of other personages of noble or knightly degree; convocations and meetings of the higher clergy; victories gained abroad, and defeats or losses sustained; ceremonials and state processions; prosecutions of Lollards, with expressions of exultation at the expiation of their offences at the stake; raids of robbers and outlaws, traversing the country at large; accidents and misadventures; imposts, crimes, conflagrations, floods, and variations of the weather:—all these, in fact, form features to attract our notice, as we turn over the leaves of this curious, though apparently uninviting, journal ; while at the same time, hardly anything, to all appearance, in which the inmates of the House were interested, either in the way of amplification of its numbers or resources, or of <sup>1</sup>quarrels with its neighbours, whether rich or poor, is overlooked.

From the very humble and unpretending appearance of the compilation, and the slovenly and often careless way in which the entries are made, it has perhaps the semblance rather of being a private journal of events kept by one of the monks for reference or amusement, than of being an Abbey Chronicle, entered up from time to time on behalf, and for the use, of the whole of the community. If, however, it is to be looked upon as an Abbey Chronicle, it is probably <sup>2</sup>among the very latest of this class of writings that have come down to us ; unless, indeed, we consent to acknowledge the <sup>3</sup>Second and Third Continuations of the History of the Pseudo-Ingulfus as such ; a character, however, which they are hardly competent to maintain, from the doubtfulness of their <sup>4</sup>origin, and the historical form which their context assumes.

Possibly a private journal kept by one of the monks.

If an Abbey Chronicle, probably among the latest of the class.

To limit our attention for the present to this, the smaller of these works ; in the way of elucidating some few of its obscurities and distant allusions, and passing in review some among the more interesting passages of its contents.—

Proposed elucidation of some of its obscurities.

Between the closing page of the Gesta Abbatum and

<sup>4</sup> In the Third Continuation it is stated that it was written by a member of the Council of King Edward IV., a Doctor of Canon Law. Though perhaps originally a member of the Monastery of Croyland, the probabilities are, that he was not an inmate of it when he wrote.

John Whethamstede now Abbot of St. Alban's. the commencement of the present Chronicle there is a lapse of about twenty years : Abbot William Heyworth had been promoted to the <sup>1</sup>See of Lichfield and Coventry, and John Whethamstede was now ruling the Abbey in his stead.

He attends at the Council of Pavia, or Sienna, A.D. 1423. Abbot Whethamstede set out from St. Alban's on his mission to the Council of Pavia, (afterwards transferred to Sienna), as one of the representatives of the English nation, on St. Cuthbert's Day (March 20) 1423. His route, his sickness, almost unto death, and his manifold adventures while on his travels, are fully set forth in the Annales ; nor do we in general find the narrator, whoever he may have been, backward in enlarging upon the mishaps that befell the worthy Abbot more than once.

Mishap, near Pavia, that befell some of his retinue. There is one fact, however, mentioned in the present Chronicle (p. 4), which, from ignorance or inadvertence on part of the writer of the Annales, is not there <sup>2</sup>noticed ; in reference to the perils then, as now, not uncommonly attendant upon travel on Italian soil. On the morrow (August 3), of the Invention of St. Alban the Abbot, finding his retinue too large for his requirements,—the more especially, as the plague was then threatening, which necessitated a removal of the Council to Sienna,—dismissed five of his attendants, with injunctions to return to England forthwith. Hardly, however, had they got beyond the walls of Pavia, when they were attacked by brigands, thrown into duress, and their baggage carried off, <sup>3</sup> letters home from the Abbot included. Under what circumstances they regained their liberty, and with what redress, if any, we are not informed.

<sup>2</sup> It is merely stated (p. 131) that the Abbot sent four of his servants home, and nothing further ; his retinue still amounting to twenty in number : see p. 134.

From the time of Henry Beauclerk and good Queen Maude, the Abbey of St. Alban's seems to have been a favourite resort for royalty, alike in its fits of devoutness and its moments of leisure; but people of royal lineage or high connexion probably never flocked to it more continuously, or in greater numbers, than in the first seven years of the reign of the infant King, Henry the Sixth. Abbot Whethamstede evidently had as high a reputation for courtesy and worldly wisdom as for book-learning, and his counsels seem to have been sought with equal eagerness by the two great heads of the antagonistic parties in the politics of the times, the intriguing and ambitious Henry Beaufort, Bishop of Winchester, and his rash and impetuous nephew, the Duke of Gloucester, the "Good Duke Humphrey" of after-days. Indeed, the singular attachment of the latter to the Abbey and its inmates can hardly be said to have ended with his life: the same spot which had found him hearty welcome and right royal entertainment on many a festive day, gave him a resting-place after death; and his canopied tomb, still to be seen at the verge of the Saint's Chapel, in the old Abbey Church, is one of its comparatively few relics of higher art in the Middle Ages, which have been allowed by the combined agencies of time, greed, ignorance, and neglect, to survive to the present day.

In page 4 we have the earliest notice of these visits. Accompanied by his adventurous but luckless <sup>1</sup> wife, the Duchess Jacqueline of Hainault—here styled "Jacoba, Duchess of Holland"—and attended by a train of no less than 300 followers, a mixture of English and <sup>2</sup> Teutonics, the Duke passed the Christmas of A.D. 1423 at St. Alban's. Abbot John not having as yet returned from his mission to the Council of Pavia, the honours of the house were done by the Prior in his absence, who accordingly received his royal guests with solemn procession on Christmas Eve. Mishap, however, seems to have attended this overwhelming accession, (probably, in many instances, of rough and roistering characters) to the inmates of town and Abbey: the coneyes in Eywode were soon hunted down, and roebucks and hinds were slaughtered and flayed without remorse. The impetuous Duke, however, seems to have taken an early opportunity of giving his people a more than gentle hint as to the unlawfulness of such excesses. One of the offenders, whose ill luck it was to be caught, was set in the stocks; and then, in a spirit savouring perhaps less of high-souled valour than of retributive justice, his indignant master stepped up to him, and literally—<sup>1</sup>“broke his head,” the Chronicler tells us, with a <sup>2</sup>mattress-beater; at the same time ordering his greyhound, the companion and instrument of his offence, to be hanged. We can very well believe the writer (p. 5) that, by a mode of treatment so effectually carrying conviction as this, was “—set at rest this evil appetite for sporting, on part of his servants.”

Deer-stealing by the Duke's servants; one of them punished by the Duke's own hands.

Visit to St. Alban's of Edmund Mortimer, Earl of March.

His offering at the Shrine.

At the preceding Feast of the Eleven Thousand Virgins (October 21) another personage of royal descent had paid (p. 5) a visit to the Abbey, but intent upon a more serious errand than to be received with wassail and good cheer; Edmund Mortimer, Earl of March, great grandson of Lionel Plantagenet, and, strictly speaking, rightful heir to the English throne. The illustrious invalid came to the Monastery in search of health; he slept there but a single night, and took his departure after due offering made to the Blessed Martyr, of a golden noble and a ring set with a sapphire; which latter he ordered, in common with the multitude of gems and jewels which during the lapse of ages had been already bestowed upon it, to be set in the outer covering of the Saint's shrine. Indeed, the Martyr would seem to have been in luck just then; for in the succeeding paragraph we find it added (p. 6) that another sapphire ring was also attached to the shrine, which had been picked up in the Refectory by W. Britt, one of the brethren, and for which, it is to be presumed, no owner could be found. In the mention of this visit an ungrammatical passage occurs, that deserves some notice,—“et aliud (nobile) plicans secum deferens;” words obscurely used in reference either to a cure prayed for, or to a cure effected, through the agency of the Saint. It may be here remarked, in explanation of this allusion, that when a sick person hoped to be cured of his malady through the intervention of some particular Saint, it was the custom to bend (plicare) one or more coins of silver or gold in honour of such Saint, in juxtaposition with the body of the patient; and it was deemed all the more satisfactory, if the process of bending could be performed over the sick man's body at the Saint's shrine. On recovery, the coin seems to have been sometimes given as an offering to the church or shrine of the favouring Saint, while in some instances it was retained as a <sup>1</sup> memorial of his cure by the person so favoured. In the present instance it would seem that the suffering nobleman carried the bent coin away with him (secum deferens). It availed him but little, however; for Edmund Mortimer died in the following year, his earldom became extinct, and eventually Edward Plantagenet (as Edward the Fourth), the grandson of his sister Anne, wife of Richard Plantagenet, Earl of Cambridge, (beheaded in 1415), became his representative as the rightful heir to the English crown.

Another accession to the Shrine.

ford
Bridge.

It was in the third year of Henry the Sixth, either A.D. 1424 or 1425, that one William (p. 6), a tenant of the Abbot, living at <sup>1</sup>Marford, in the parish of Sandridge, near St. Alban's, being afflicted with blindness, in a spirit of devoutness caused a wooden cross to be erected on the right hand side of the high road leading to Codicote, over Marford Bridge; a statue of the Virgin Mary, in alabaster, being also placed near it. Such memorials of the piety of former ages are still plentifully in existence in Roman Catholic countries, but with us probably they have nearly all passed away.<sup>2</sup> conditions.

On Tuesday in Whitsun week, A.D. 1426 (p. 6), at the request of one Thomas Heyne, Abbot Whethamstede granted permission to the people dwelling in the street, or lane, of Halywell, at St. Alban's, to cut turf in that part of the heath (bruera) of Barnet Wood which was then known as the "field of Monkdych," and <sup>3</sup>belonged to the Abbey Almoner's department. The plea on the part of the townsmen was, that they might have the opportunity of erecting two besselles, or archery-butts, on the ground so cleared. On referring to the Appendix, however (p. 428), a passage will be found, in which it is suggested that this was done with the view of encroachment only, and that it was in a <sup>4</sup>captious spirit that all this was devised and worked out; it evidently being, according to the anonymous writer there, (who expresses himself in language that only just misses being utterly unintelligible), the intention of the townspeople at once to encroach upon the Abbey property and curtail the boundaries of their neighbours at Sandridge. However this may have been, the Abbot put them strictly upon terms on this occasion, by granting the required permission, but only on condition that in future they should refrain from cutting turf or erecting butts on <sup>1</sup> Barnet Heath, without the express permission of the owner of the soil.

We have some curious particulars in page 6 of this Chronicle, in reference to the untimely fate of Sir John Mortimer; a man evidently of some mark in his day, and who not improbably was regarded with suspicion and jealousy by the House of Lancaster from <sup>2</sup> his connexion with the Earl of March, the rightful heir to the English crown:—"On the morrow of St. Matthias the " Apostle (February 24), Sir John Mortemore, Knight, " was hanged, who had once craftily made his escape " on being brought out of the Tower for the sake of " exercise, and had a second time traitorously escaped: " being taken, however, in Tower Lane, and horribly " mutilated, on the following Saturday he was drawn " and <sup>3</sup> beheaded, and his body divided into four parts; " and in this way did he breathe his last. His corpse " lies buried in the Hospital of <sup>4</sup> St. John in London, " and his heart at the <sup>5</sup> Friars Minors." His fate would be all the more likely to be recorded in a St. Alban's Chronicle, from the fact that he had been a near neighbour of the Abbey, residing at <sup>6</sup> Bishop's Hatfield, in the same county. He would seem, however, to have

cape. He says that Mortimer—"was taken on Tower Wharf, sore " beaten and wounded."

been a man of a restless and turbulent disposition ; for in the reign of the late King, Henry the Fifth, he had been committed to the Tower on suspicion of treason. In the first year of the succeeding reign he made his escape ; the first escape, no doubt, that we find mentioned in the preceding extract. On being again apprehended, as we learn from the State Trials, he was indicted and convicted under the Statute of Escapes, and, after sentence, executed at Tyburn. He was accused also of various other offences, though not tried upon those charges. It was alleged by one King, who bore witness against him, a servant of Sir Robert Scot, Keeper of the Tower, that he had agreed to give him forty pounds for assisting him to escape, with the promise of a future earldom ; and that he had further told King that, after his escape, he would go to the Earl of March in Wales, raise forty thousand men there, re-enter England, and cut off the head, as well of the Duke of Gloucester, the then Protector, as of the Bishop of Winchester. Also, that he had further alleged that the Earl of March was the rightful heir to the crown, and that after him the next heir was himself : and that in case the Earl should recover his right, he himself would assume the regal power as his due. Lastly, that if the Earl should refuse to accept his services, he would fly to France, and aid the French King against England. A slight outline of the particulars of Mortimer's indictment before a London Jury, at Guildhall, is to be found in the printed Rolls of Parliament, Vol. IV., p. 202 ; but without any reference (beyond mention of a " Schedule " annexed ") to the charges above quoted.

Execution of an impostor, pretending that he is an ambassador from the Emperor.

In page 7 we meet with a singular story of a spurious ambassador, who had the impudence to present himself at the English Court. In his double capacity of impostor and imperial envoy, he could not dispense with a title, of course ; and accordingly, the " Baron de Blakamore " he styled himself ; under which name were intended, no doubt, to be implied the length and breadth of the broad acres which formed his ancestral domain:—“ About the Feast of St. Barnabas (June 11) there came to London a knave, who pretended that he was sent as ambassador from the Emperor to our Lord the King, Henry the Sixth, then a child; and that he was the Baron de <sup>1</sup> Blakamore, and the principal physician in all the kingdom. But his craft and roguery becoming known, he was seized and beheaded, and <sup>2</sup> hanged and quartered: after which, his head was placed upon stakes on the Tower of London, and the four quarters of his body were hung up at so many of the London Gates, so as to strike terror into such impostors.”

The Queen Dowager, Johanna of Navarre, widow of the late King, Henry the Fourth, was at this time the tenant of the royal palace at King's Langley, which had been built by Edward the Third. Like most of the other royal residents at that place, she no doubt was in general on good terms with her neighbours at St. Alban's; though for a moment there would seem to have been a risk of such good neighbourship being interrupted. The passage (p. 8) bearing reference to this circumstance is perhaps not very clearly expressed, but it seems to imply that one William Eyle, a tenant of <sup>3</sup> Langley, was caught fishing in the pond of Bedefunt, water in which the Queen had a “several” right of fishery, as occupant of the royal demesne. His nets were seized by John Hatfeld, acting <sup>4</sup> apparently in the Queen's behalf. Johanna shewed some signs of indignation upon this untoward occurrence; the Abbot, however, skilful courtier as he always proved himself, promptly waited upon her Majesty, and,—whether by Langley.

On the Day of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross (September 14),—"just after Vespers sung in the choir" (p. 8), probably about five in the afternoon, Jacqueline of Hainault, with an escort of four-and-twenty horse, passed through the court-yard of the Abbey on her way to pay a visit—a last visit, no doubt,—to Queen Johanna at Langley: and two days after, on the morrow (September 16) of the Day of St. Nicomedes, the Duke of Gloucester, attended by Sir John Robessart and ten other horsemen, passed through the court-yard on the same route. It was in the year 1425 that Gloucester ceased to appear in arms against Jacqueline's arch-enemy, Philip Duke of Burgundy, and, contenting himself with sending a few troops to her relief, abandoned her to struggle single-handed against him, as best she might. The passage, therefore, though apparently intended to come under the year 1426, must belong to an <sup>2</sup> earlier date.

On the morrow (March 22) of St. Benedict, A.D. 1426 (p. 8), the Duke of Gloucester again passed through St. Alban's, on his way from the Parliament, which had been sitting at Leicester, and had just been adjourned to the 29th of the following month. The inmates sallied forth to escort him, in solemn procession, as usual, on his way to Barnet. But while they were thus intent on the combined duties of religion and hospitality, the

<sup>2</sup> It seems doubtful if it can even apply to 1425: for, according to general authority, Jacqueline was left by Humphrey at Mons, in the earlier part of 1425, from which place she never returned to England, but soon afterwards fell into the hands of the Duke of Burgundy. See Mr. J. Stevenson's Preface to Letters and Papers, Reign of Henry IV., Vol. I. p. lv. If, on the other hand, 1425 is the correct year, Jacqueline must have paid a last visit to England at a later date than has hitherto been known; probably to make a last appeal for assistance. L'Art de vérifier les Dates is apparently wrong in its chronology as to this part of Jacqueline's life.

ordinary requirements of precaution against fire within the Abbey walls seem to have been forgotten. Spices and wine had probably been handed round in the Abbot's "Lesser Chamber," with the usual profuseness of the place: but while the procession was now speeding him on his way, the "dorsals," or wall-hangings, of the room took fire, and it was only at the price of their destruction that the conflagration was arrested. Upon his return to the <sup>1</sup>Parliament at Leicester, the Duke again took St. Alban's on his road, and, together with his retinue, prolonged his stay there to three days.

At the eleventh page we meet with the first of several notices given in this Chronicle of the doings of William <sup>2</sup>Wawe, a man who seems to have inspired terror far and wide, by his daring as a freebooter, in those days. We learn incidentally (p. 17) that he did not entirely disdain an ordinary huckster for his prey. But the religious were the chief objects of his attack; without partiality or prejudice, he appears to have robbed regulars and seculars alike, rectors and vicars, monks and nuns. Having first plundered Sir John Boys, Knight, at Grenestede, (probably the place, still so called, near Chipping Ongar, in Essex), he appeared with his accomplices, in unknown numbers, at eleven at night on Septuagesima Sunday,

Winchester, carried on their shoulders.

His attack upon the Nunnery of Sopwell. A.D. 1427,—“the hour at which the nuns are wont to be aroused for Matins,” without the walls of the Nunnery at Sopwell. Such of the number of his comrades as were told off for the purpose, lost little time in effecting an entrance: terrifying the startled inmates with their threats, they made urgent enquiries for <sup>1</sup> Alianor Hull, who, no doubt luckily for herself, was not to be found. Seizing a few jewels, the thieves made off; for by this time the bells in tower and belfry were pealing aloud, and the townsmen flocking to the rescue from all directions; the hue and cry having been raised by Roger Howseyf, a devoted adherent of the Monastery, who resided at Sopwell, and of whom further mention will be made in the sequel. After the discharge of a single arrow, the robbers made good their retreat.

Capture of one of his people.

At the foot of the same page we again find mention made of the evil courses of this “rascal” (vispellionis) William Wawe. Somewhere about the time of the Feast of <sup>2</sup> St. Gregory the Pope, one of his people was captured at Barnet, and imprisoned temporarily at St. Alban’s; from whence he was taken to London, and carried before the Duke of Gloucester, the Protector of the realm. What his fate was, we are not told; but we may easily conjecture, as the times were merciless and his crime was great.—“So manifold were the robberies,” the Chronicler tells us, “committed by his master upon both rectors and <sup>3</sup> widows, that as well townspeople as inmates of the Monastery, stricken with alarm, were compelled to keep watch the whole night through, and to have their doors strongly barred.” With the view, too, of the more readily giving the alarm in case of emergency, the bell of the Abbey Almonry was removed to the roof of the <sup>1</sup> Presbytery, as being a more <sup>2</sup> convenient spot.

On the 30th of March in the same year, being the Fourth Sunday in Lent, we again (p. 12) hear of the doings of William Wawe. Another of his accomplices being taken, this time at Watton, near Hertford, he was at once brought to St. Alban's, and afterwards removed to the <sup>3</sup> house of William Flete. Being taken from thence to London, he was there hanged on the 8th of May, being—"Thursday, the morrow of the Feast of St. John of Beverley."

That Wawe himself was eventually taken and executed, is a fact as to which we are distinctly informed; but as to the exact time and manner of his capture, we can come to no very distinct conclusion, there being two somewhat contradictory accounts given in the Chronicle. In the first passage (p. 12) we have the following information:—"In the week following the end of March, at <sup>4</sup> Sliford, the outlaw before-named having plundered the rectors and vicars of the district by armed violence, he took to flight. He was taken at length in a marsh by the bailiffs and other inhabitants of the town; but before his surrender there was a fight, in which his own men were grievously wounded, and some of the townsmen slain, to the great sorrow of the neighbouring people, who held in abhorrence so flagitious a career;" while in the other passage (p. 14) we read, apparently, to a somewhat contrary effect:—"In the same year, on the Friday after the Feast of St. John Port Latin (May 6), William Wawe, that most nefarious robber, after “ afforded grounds for hoping for great quietude to all “ people throughout the realm of England.” This apparent discrepancy between the two passages is only to be accounted for, on the supposition that Wawe escaped from his captors after being taken at Sleaford, and succeeded in making his way to the Cell, or Priory, of Beaulieu.

of William Wawe.

In page 17 we learn his ultimate fate :—“ On the “ morrow (July 16) of St. Swithun, William Wawe was “ hanged, a most wicked robber and plunderer, who, in“ spired by a diabolical frenzy, spared neither religious “ nor traders, but seized their property by force, and “ plundered the nuns of <sup>2</sup> Burham : after being confined “ for some time in the Tower of London, to the great “ security of all England, being first <sup>3</sup> moved to repent“ ance, he was put to death for his deserts on the day “ above named.”

Accomplices of Wawe.

The accomplices also of Wawe, who seems to have spread terror through the South of England, appear to have been many in number. Two of them have already been incidentally mentioned, and two more are named in the sequel of this Chronicle.—Under the year 1430 we read (p. 47) :—“ A fierce robber, and a <sup>4</sup> fellow of William “ Wawe, William Venables by name, for treason and “ despoiling the King’s liege men, was hanged, drawn,
 “ and quartered, on the 11th day of February ; and

<sup>1</sup> The Priory of Beaulieu, or Bewly, in Bedfordshire, a Cell belonging to St. Alban’s, in the Parish of Clophill, is probably the place meant.

<sup>2</sup> Burnham, a Nunnery in Buckinghamshire, is, no doubt, the place alluded to.

<sup>3</sup> This is probably the meaning, but the whole passage is ungramma-tical and obscure.

 “ the first day of the month of March died Geoffrey “ <sup>1</sup>Irish, in prison, a noble transcriber, and one of the “ accomplices of William Wawe.” As to the bandit Wawe himself, it remains to be added, that his name is once mentioned in the Rolls of Parliament (Vol. IV.
 p. 321), and once only, as having conspired,—“along with “ other felons,” to slay a certain Henry Hert.

A piece of land, known by the name of <sup>2</sup>“Nomans- Dispute between the Abbots of Westminster and St. Alban's; as to Nomanslonde, near Sandridge.
 “londe,” had long been a fertile source of contention between the Abbots of Westminster and St. Alban's; the former asserting that it rightfully belonged to their manor of Whethamstede, while the latter as strongly contended that it was parcel of the manor of Sandridge, which belonged to the Abbey of St. Alban's.
 It was about the year 1417, we learn from p. 14, and consequently in the Abbacy of William Heyworth, (who, whatever his ultimate merits as a <sup>3</sup>Bishop, seems to have been but an <sup>4</sup>indolent and unsatisfactory Abbot), that Richard Wyth (or Whyt), bailiff of the Abbot of Westminster, resolved to support his master's asserted prerogative with a high hand, went so far as to erect a gallows, or gibbet, upon the disputed and debateable land,—“to the injury of the demesne of Sandrygg and “ of St. Alban's.” For more than ten years the gibbet was allowed to remain unmolested, as a significant indication of the Abbot of Westminster's ownership of the soil. On a certain night, however, in the seventh year of Abbot Whethamstede's rule, A.D. 1427, the gallows was hewn to the ground, by whom no one knew, the Chronicler says, though, somewhat suspiciously for the truth of his assertion, he tells us how it was done, namely,—“by force of swords and axes.” Whyt, the indefatigable bailiff, immediately re-erected it; whereupon Abbot John,—“relying upon sound counsel, manfully had it levelled by his servants and tenants to the ground.” Indeed, so entirely righteous did his cause now seem to be, that some even of the people of Whethamstede, tenants of the opposing party, who happened to be passing that way,—“seeing in their hearts of a truth that injustice was done to the Monastery therein,” gave a helping hand to the leveling of this obnoxious symbol of ownership. The parishioners of Whethamstede, however, seem to have had misgivings,—and not unreasonably, considering the almost unquestioned sway which their superior lord was entitled to exercise over them,—as to their imprudence in thus interfering in support of the St. Alban's cause. Accordingly, early on the morning of <sup>1</sup>St. Augustine's Day (May 26), somewhere about 7 o'clock, being, as the Chronicler says, to some extent,—<sup>2</sup>“in fear for their hides,” they made a point of rising betimes, and, with the view, no doubt, of re-asserting the Abbot of Westminster's seignorial rights, stealthily made perambulation, in due procession, of the disputed ground, crowning the whole proceeding by leaving a shred of wood upon the surface, cut in the form of a cross. The Abbot of St. Alban's, it would seem, was at the same moment contemplating a like perambulation of the spot, by his own people and on his own behalf; and accordingly, on the day after the stealthy procession on part of the parishioners of Whethamstede, he sent out some persons to reconnoitre the spot; who duly reported to him, on their return, that the ground was clear, that they had seen nothing but a few fellows lurking behind the hedges, and had found no one to shew opposition. Upon this, the Abbot's people, joined by the Vicar and parishioners of Sandridge, made perambulation in their turn,—“singing hymns and chanting the Gospels (of the day), as on these occasions the custom is.” Ten years later, and the rights of the respective Abbots in this and the adjacent land again became the subject of warm litigation, as will be seen in the concluding pages of the Annales.

The atrocious circumstances attending the murder of William Grys, at Norwich, it is evident, created a great sensation at the time; and we have here the following sketch of its details (p. 16):—“About the Feast of St. Basilius (June 14), through the presence of the Duke of Gloucester at Norwich, who was there with two Judges, Sir William Babyngtone and Cheyne, upon the prosecution of the wife of William Grys, the iniquitous and unjust slaying of the same William was avenged; for on the Day of our Lord's Nativity, in the second year of the reign of King Henry (A.D. 1423), when <sup>1</sup> heated with wassail to some extent, he was dragged out of his house <sup>2</sup> by some persons who had an ill-feeling against him, and taken, together with his son Gregory and a servant of his household, and hanged, they having been horribly mutilated before death; and so, after <sup>3</sup> nearly three years had elapsed, their death was avenged, by the hanging of Munde the Miller, Thomas Penerych, tailor, on the

In the middle of this year, Queen Johanna, after making a round of pilgrimages (p. 16) to the Cell of Walsingham, the Priory of Norwich, the Abbey of Peterborough, and various other places, ended her mission by paying a visit of devotion to the Abbey of St. Alban's. The inmates received her in solemn procession, arrayed in copes of white, and in the afternoon she passed on to her palace at Langley.

In p. 17 we read of a remarkable compliment being paid, if not to the learning of Abbot Whethamstede, to the singular gracefulness which was considered to characterize his style as an epistolary correspondent. The <sup>2</sup> Archbishop of Canterbury, we learn, accompanied by several other prelates, on the 3rd day of July 1427, preferred an urgent request to the Abbot in the Council-Chamber at Westminster,—“that he would deign” to assent to their entreaties, and write certain letters of embassy, that were to be sent to the Supreme Pontiff, as well on behalf of the clergy as of the realm of England in general. He seems to have felt himself placed—<sup>3</sup>“in “a certain difficulty” by so marked a compliment: a hesitation, however, which was but momentary; and such was his alacrity in complying with the entreaties of the prelaty, that it was so soon as the Saturday following that he—"personally received their grateful thanks for "his labours." As the subject of Abbot Whethamstede's qualifications as a scholar will probably again come under notice in the Introduction to the Annales, it will suffice to remark for the present that, however great the merits of his prose composition may have been, they cannot possibly be surpassed in degree by the absurdity and utter worthlessness of the attempts at Latin<sup>1</sup> verse attributed to him in that work.

We meet with a short but curious notice, in p. 18, of the malpractices prevalent in the London wine-trade at that day:—"At this time (Michaelmas 1427) the Lombards in London accused of tampering with the "Lombards tampering with the<sup>2</sup> proper character of their sweet wines, their outrageous malpractices came under the notice of John Reynewell, the then Mayor, who became aware of their conspiracy, and the consequent poisoning by them of Englishmen. Throughout various streets, their tuns and casks were dragged forth from the taverns, and beaten to pieces; and the unwholesome liquor, like torrents of rain-water, ran down through the midst of the City; in addition to which, in the sight of every one, a most foul vapour issued forth therefrom. The number of tuns and casks so broken to pieces was one hundred and fifty."

One Parker,—"an inciter to mischief" (p. 19), having accused certain persons, who are styled "venerable," but whose names are not given, of plotting against the life of "an innocent King," and of—<sup>3</sup>"undermining the strength of the little child," the persons so accused were brought up for examination before the Judges and others learned in the law, and declared innocent thereof. Upon further process, as to the particulars of which we are not informed, the accuser himself was sentenced to drawing, hanging, and the other barbarous accompaniments of punishment for treason. His four quarters were—"hung for a time upon the four cardinal Gates of the City, to strike terror into the wicked, and <sup>1</sup>as a warning to the good."

The Duke of Gloucester keeps Christmas at St. Alban's.

At the close of 1427 we learn (p. 19) that the Duke of Gloucester kept his Christmas at St. Alban's,—“in splendid style.” On the morrow of our Lord's Epiphany he took his departure for Ashridge, near Berkhamstead, for a stay there of three days.

Insult offered to John Chylton, a monk of Beaulieu.

Shortly after the Epiphany, an event happened (p. 20), which, no doubt, excited considerable indignation, not only at St. Alban's, but in the ecclesiastical world in general; rivalling, in fact, John Moote, the Cellarer's, adventure upon the <sup>2</sup>pillory at Luton, some forty years before. The <sup>3</sup>tax-gatherer for the County of Bedford, for some reason not stated, in the market-place at Shefford seized one of the monks of Beaulieu, a Cell of St. Alban's in that County, John Chylton by name, and shut him up for a whole night, with his legs made fast in iron fetters. The remaining portion of the account is somewhat difficult to be understood, but the following is, in all probability, a correct rendering of it:—"His <sup>4</sup>boots having had to be taken off his legs, by reason of the tightness of the fetter-locks, and the great size of his stout limbs." It is only a few months after this that we find (pp. 29, 30) the Abbot of St. Alban's taking measures to recall his monks from <sup>5</sup>Beaulieu, ostensibly on account of the impoverished state of the Cell. Newcome, in his History of St. Alban's (p. 478), professing to quote from Leland, says that, one of the monks there having killed a butcher, they were compelled to quit the place. This is apparently an error, however; as, on referring to Leland's Collectanea, Vol. III., p. 9. we find that it was the monks of Newenham, near Bedford, who had to remove thither for such reason from that town.

In page 20 we meet with a <sup>1</sup> passage containing matter of considerable interest, but conveyed in language so utterly deficient, as regards Latin orthography, as well as grammar, as to render its exact meaning almost a matter of surmise. In giving a translation of it, we must premise, as alluded to in Note 6 to p. 20, that, long before this, Duke Humphrey had repudiated Jacqueline of Hainault as his wife, and abandoned her to the vengeance of the Duke of Burgundy:—"At <sup>2</sup> this Parliament, also, a certain woman from the <sup>3</sup> Stokkes came openly into Parliament, together with some other women of London, respectably apparelled, and handed letters to the Duke of Gloucester, the Archbishops, and other lords who were there; and the tenor of these letters was censure of the Duke of Gloucester, who would not deliver his wife from the harsh duress in which she was held by the Duke of Burgundy; but, his love now grown cold, allowed her so to remain in captivity; as also, for his publicly keeping <sup>4</sup> another woman in adultery, to the ruin of his own person and of the realm, and to the impairing of the efficiency of the conjugal tie." Considering the high popularity enjoyed by the Duke of Gloucester with the people of Singular nature of the preceding entry.

This entry of what was evidently then looked upon as a piece of scandal, would seem to strengthen the supposition that the Chronicle was copied from various sources, rather as the private journal of an individual inmate of the Abbey, than as a manual of passing events, kept under the auspices of the Præcentor, or Scriptorarius, for general perusal.

fever at
St. Alban's.

In the month succeeding their departure, though not entirely upon the grounds of hospitality, the Abbey had to receive another visitor of distinction. Richard Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, who, it would seem (pp. 20, 22) had been on a visit to the Duke of Gloucester, at Merton, during Easter, was attacked by a tertian fever, while travelling in the neighbourhood of St. Alban's. With commendable prudence, he at once determined to seek cure and shelter within the precincts of the Monastery. Arriving there, in company with his wife, on the 21st of May, it was the 4th of June before he left. The Abbey, however, on this occasion was no loser by its attentions, for the Earl paid <sup>1</sup> "extremely well," we are told, for his cheer, and earned manifold benedictions at the moment of his departure.

In p. 24 we find the <sup>2</sup> old dispute about the heath of Nomanslonde resuscitated, under somewhat peculiar circumstances. A shepherd of Whethamstede, being attacked by a sudden fit of illness, while tending his flock on the heath, died upon the spot. The Vicar of Sandridge, on the ground, no doubt, that the soil was parcel of the manor of the Abbot of St. Alban's, claimed the body for burial in the graveyard of his parish; while the people of Whethamstede, on the other side, carrying matters with a higher hand, seized the body, bore it away to their church, and buried it in their own churchyard; and this, as the Chronicler says,—“while litigation was still pending between the Abbots of the two demesnes, the body of the deceased having had no inquest by Coroner held over it.”

We have a fact also mentioned in page 24 which seems to have escaped the vigilance of Foxe, in his Acts and Monuments; a thing the more to be regretted, as he possibly might have thrown some light on the passage in question.—In the month of July a Convocation of the clergy being held for various purposes at St. Paul's in London, a “clerk,” who was one of “Wyklyf's sect,” was brought before the assembly, and, with him, a woman, who, no doubt, was tainted with the like heresy: but why she was called—“una ephialtes dextris contra fidem,” or what this allusion to nightmare, in combination with the word “dextris,” can mean, it seems next to impossible to divine. They were kept in chains, in strict custody, by the Archbishop (Henry Chicheley) until the ensuing Michaelmas; but we do not read of anything more serious befalling them.

Owing to a blow given to a servant of one of the parties, an “inveterate feud” (p. 25) had arisen of late between the Earl of Huntingdon (John Holland) and John Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk; to so serious an extent that, each side having raised a considerable force, a pitched battle was apparently on the point of being fought; some spot in the County of Bedford, not identified by the writer, being the scene of the anticipated conflict. The Duke of Gloucester, on hearing this, hastened down to St. Alban's, on Friday in the week after the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary (August 15), and was received there with procession on the evening of that day. On the morrow, not omitting to salute the holy Martyr with all due reverence, he started for the scene of the contest, with the view at once of learning the particulars and allaying the strife. The Duke of Norfolk, however, declined to appear; and accordingly, after, to all appearance, wasting a whole week upon an ineffectual pursuit, Gloucester left the place where he was staying, (probably Ashridge, near Berkhamstead,) for St. Alban's; from which place he shortly after had to take his departure, in order, consistently with the laws of courtesy, to meet his old enemy, Beaufort, in London; who had shortly before been created a Cardinal, by the title of St. Eusebius.

Public reception of the Cardinal
Bishop of Winchester, in London.

We have an interesting description (p. 26) of the public reception in London of the Bishop of Winchester, upon his elevation to his new dignity of Cardinal:—
 “ At the beginning of the seventh year of King Henry
 “ the Sixth, or thereabouts, the Bishop of Winchester, “ now a Cardinal of Rome, landed at the port of Dover, “ in England; and on St. Giles's Day (September 1) he “ was received most joyously in London by the Mayor “ of that city and very many citizens, reverently ar“ rayed in red hoods and green vestments, there being “ also present the Abbots of St. Alban's and of Waltham,
 “ and a numerous multitude of Friars of the four Orders;
 “ with processions and solemn chants, amid the great “ exultation of the people. Proceeding to St. Paul's,

“ and then to Westminster, he was honourably received “ with processions, and with all glory, as was befitting.
 “ The Earl of Mortain, in noble array, came with the “ Cardinal. The <sup>1</sup> Bishop of Salisbury, <sup>2</sup> his uncle, came “ to meet him ; and there were no other bishops there
 “ to meet him. This venerable Cardinal rode on horse“ back in a travelling dress, before the Londoners ar“ rived to welcome him. Changing his former garb for “ a cope of red velvet, called ‘ crymesyne,’ with sleeves, “ which covered his palfrey to the ears before, and as far “ as the crupper behind, and a hood broad and ample,
 “ like a scholar’s hood, and a hat of velvet, he entered “ the City, with his cross borne before him ; while two “ knights, one on either side of him, held two red hats,
 “ not such very good ones, by the brims, and his couriers “ on foot cleared the road ; his esquires holding his “ bridle, the mountings of which were of silver and “ ‘ enamelyd’ : the whole being to the great honour of “ the City, the realm, and the commons.”

On [the morrow (September 22) of the Feast of St. First visit of the Bishop to the Abbey, after his elevation. Matthew in the same year, Beaufort paid his first visit (p. 28) to the Monastery after his elevation to the Cardinalate. Arrayed in a cope, furred with “ menyver,” and with his cross borne before him, he was received by the inmates, wearing white copes, and escorted in solemn procession to the Abbey Church, the new <sup>3</sup> organs pealing aloud, which had <sup>4</sup> recently been placed by Abbot Whethamstede in the choir. At the conclusion of the service, the Cardinal gave his benediction to the assembled populace, and then made offering at the Martyr’s shrine. On the morrow, before six in the morning, he again visited the shrine, and, after hearing three Masses there,

Change made, by the Abbot's order, in the diet of the novices on flesh-days.

We meet with a singular passage in pp. 28, 29, bearing reference to a change of regulations made by the Abbot's order in the internal economy of the Refectory, as regarded the diet of the novices: rendered all the more remarkable, perhaps, by the obscure and ungrammatical language in which it is written; in combination with some terms in reference to the usages of the Conventual table, which are probably nowhere else to be met with. Indeed, it is not without hesitation that a translation of the passage is attempted:—“Our venerable father, <sup>1</sup> Sir John, Abbot of this Church, having bowels of compassion for every one and every thing, even as the eagle turns its eyes from the light of the sun, and fixes them upon the earth, remarked that the <sup>2</sup>constitutions of the youth of the present day are not so robust as were the constitutions of those who have gone before us; he therefore determined, in the even balance of his discretion, that for the future the novices who were to sup on flesh-days in the Refectory, from the time of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross (September 14) to <sup>3</sup>Quinquagesima, should omit at their dinner one <sup>4</sup>dish of fried meat, and for their supper should receive wholesome food from the kitchen, namely, eggs, boiled, cooked, and roasted, together with <sup>5</sup>candles and

<sup>4</sup> This is probably the meaning of the word “allam.” It can hardly be an error for the classical word “ollam,” a pot.

<sup>5</sup> This may possibly be the meaning of “candellis ;” both for the purpose of giving them light, and measuring the length of the meal “by inch of candle ;” as appears to have been done in some Monasteries.

“<sup>1</sup> platters, and with <sup>2</sup> parched oats on alternate occasions; seeing that the food of the Refectory served hitherto at supper, both roasted and <sup>3</sup> warmed up, had been very injurious to the constitutions of those of modern times, and baneful. The ordinance aforesaid was orally recited in the Great Chamber of the Lord Abbot, there being present, Sir John Blebury, Prior; Sir William Alnewik, Archdeacon; Brother Robert Ware, Kitchener; Sir Peter Waleys, Third Prior; and Sir Alexander Bonne, Provost of the works in the church.”

P. 29.—“In the same year (1429) two priests and a secular person, Lollards and <sup>4</sup>sheer heretics, were burnt in the city of Norwich, and reduced to ashes; the name of the principal one of whom was ‘Hugh Pye,’ and of the second ‘Wythe:’ the same being to the confusion of the infidels, and to the exultation of those who believe in the Catholic faith.” Foxe, in his Acts and Monuments, gives some additional information in reference to this transaction. John Waddon was the other person who was burnt at Norwich with Pye and Wythe. Pye seems to be identical with the Lollard preacher mentioned more than once by Foxe under the name of “Father Abraham.” Wythe (or White) had formerly been a priest, but, renouncing the priesthood, had married a wife, “Joan” by name, and shewed great activity in propagating Wyclif’s doctrines. After his death, his wife continued to labour in the same cause, and came under the surveillance of Bishop Alnewyk more than once.

Sermon
and Pro-

the City.

In the same page a brief account is given of a memorable Sermon preached in the City; the high place of honour conceded to the Abbots of the Benedictine Order, being probably the principal reason for its introduction:—"On Friday, the Eve (November 19) of St. Edmund the King and Martyr, the Cardinal, with his cross, the Archbishops, with their crosses, Sir Humphrey, the Duke of Gloucester, the Mayor, and a

<sup>2</sup> insolentiam. Fabyan, who gives some account of this accident, in his Chronicle, does not say a word about the arrogance, or unreasonableness, of the Duke of Norfolk, on this disastrous occasion. He merely tells us that, on the 8th of November 1428, the Duke took barge at St. Mary Overy (now St. Saviour's), in Southwark, to pass under London Bridge, on his way to Greenwich. By the unskilfulness of the steersman, the barge was driven on the piles of the bridge, and only the Duke and a few others, who leapt upon the piles, were saved. The singular adventure of Stapeltone is not alluded to in Fabyan's notice. William Wyrcester, who devotes a line or two to this disaster in his Annales, says that the Duke and hardly two others escaped.

Two visits of the Cardinal Bishop of Winchester to the Abbey of St. Alban’s are recorded in pp. 33, 34.

 the Bishop of Winchester.

In addition to its being made, for successive ages, the grand central point in the Abbey for the collection of gems and jewels, in vast numbers and of almost inestimable value, offerings at the hands of the wealthy and the devout, the shrine of the Martyr Alban was occasionally employed for another purpose, and with no little efficacy, it was fondly believed. We have an instance of this recorded in <sup>3</sup>p. 36 :—“ In this year
 “ (A.D. 1429), on the Day of our Lord’s Ascension, the “ Martyr was carried <sup>4</sup>round the town ; on which day
 “ the weather was cloudy and overcast, but imme-

 “ that had never been seen before in our times—the “ two smaller <sup>5</sup>shrines were carried forth, together with “ the Martyr’s shrine ; whereby the procession was

A mad priest slays a Minorite Friar in the Tower of London. Under the same year a tragical event is recorded (p. 38) as having occurred within the Tower of London: the present is probably the only instance in which the story has been transmitted to us.—“ About the Feast of St. Barnabas (June 11), the sun’s heat inspiring a certain mad priest who was staying within the Tower of London, at the instigation of this madness of his, he slew with a great stone Brother <sup>1</sup>Radulf, a member of the Order of Friars Minors, a <sup>2</sup>Professor of Sacred Theology, and a necromancer, as was believed; afterwards beating him on the head with a small hatchet, so that he died; and he then concealed the body beneath a heap of dung and sand.”

People crushed to death at the Coronation of Henry the Sixth. A brief account is given in p. 44 of the English Coronation of King Henry the Sixth. The day, we are told, being bright and clear, thousands upon thousands flocked to London to see the sight. A priest was <sup>3</sup>crushed to death, a woman also, and some other persons: several cutpurses were taken and imprisoned, and had their ears cropped from their heads; the son of a citizen of London being one of the number.

Conflagration of the schools at Cambridge. We have an obscure allusion in p. 45 to an event which happened at Cambridge shortly after Michaelmas 1429. The <sup>4</sup>“school-houses” were burnt there, it says, by a person who professed to be a pauper, and who had sent a letter to some one, to the effect that the rich people who could afford it must collect a stated amount of money, put it in a linen bag, and bury it beneath a certain cross outside the town; and that, if this thing should not be done, he would set fire to, and destroy, their houses within the town;—“which was accordingly done.” The Rolls of Parliament throw some light upon this curious passage; and the statement there made would lead us to believe that this was but a single instance of a novel system of extortion then prevailing; the Irish students of both of our Universities being looked upon, apparently, as the principal offenders. A <sup>1</sup>Petition, presented to the Parliament of the 8th year of King Henry the Sixth, (A.D. 1429), sets forth to the following effect:—<sup>2</sup>“Unto our Sovereign Lord the King, etc., pray the Commons in this present Parliament assembled:—that whereas divers great mischiefs and subtle robberies have of late been committed in the town of Cambridge, and elsewhere in the Counties of Cambridge and Essex, and other parts of England, by people unknown; and such people write divers letters, directed to various persons in the same town and Counties, commanding them to put divers large sums of money in certain places, from whence the said felons may easily carry off the same without being taken or perceived; and certify in the said letters that, if such persons do not put the coin by a certain day in the places in the said letters named, then they, the said felons, will set fire to, and burn, the houses of those who shall not have so put such sums; and that, because such sums have not been put in divers places, according to the purport of the same letters, many houses have been felocaused by a pretended pauper, after making certain threats.

It had been already <sup>1</sup> represented, upon petition of the Commons, in the first Parliament of the same reign, that divers homicides, murders, rapes, felonies, robberies, riots, conventicles, and other misdeeds, had been of late committed in the Counties of Oxford, Berks, Wilts, and Bucks, by divers persons resorting to the town of Oxford, as well as others dwelling therein, under the jurisdiction of the University thereof;—“ of which persons some are liege subjects of our Lord the King, born in Ireland, and others are not liege subjects of our Lord the King, but enemies unto him and to his representations, it was then enacted that all scholars of Ireland in the University of Oxford, not graduates, should give certain surety for their good behaviour, and that no person born in Ireland should enter England, to sojourn in the University of Oxford or of Cambridge, or elsewhere in the realm, unless he should first present certain letters testimonial to the Chancellor of the University. An enactment was therefore made, in answer to the representations of the Commons, in the eighth year of this reign, as already quoted, that the Statutes made theretofore as to Irish scholars in England should from thenceforth be duly kept and observed, and put in execution in case of need.—Such appears to have been the standing “ Irish difficulty ” of those days.

A Lollard
 burnt on Tower Hill.

We have the following account in p. 46 of the execution of a Lollard by fire:—“ On the Day of Saints Fabian and Sebastian (January 20) a Lollard was burnt upon Tower Hill ; a person who believed in no Sacrament of the Church, except marriage only ; and who gave honour to no habit of religion or dignity, but despised them, saying at his last examination, and when burning in the flames, — ‘ O God, the Father, ‘ of Heaven, have mercy upon me :’ seeing that he despised invoking the Saints, or praying to them, as considering them all to be not Saints, but only so according to the lay opinions of men.” This victim of superstition, we learn from Foxe’s Acts and Monuments, was one Richard Hoveden, a citizen of London, and a <sup>1</sup> wool-winder by trade. None of the above particulars are, however, to be found in Foxe.

Smithfield had already become a favourite site for lighting the fires of persecution even in these early days, but it was also an established site for jousts and tournaments as well: Richard Hoveden was consumed to ashes, we have seen, on Tower Hill, as Smithfield was probably bespoken, for the purpose of clearing the ground as a coming battle-field, a use it was put to four days afterwards:—“<sup>1</sup> On the Eve (January 24) of the Conversion of St. Paul, there was a duel between two men of Feveresham, fought in Smethefelde, who had been arrested for conspiring the King’s death; and the accuser, who was a robber, sustained a <sup>2</sup> grievous mishap in the joust, and the defendant acquired a glorious name. And because the <sup>3</sup> young King was present, after a long conflict, he restored peace; and they afterwards were reconciled in the King’s Court, and each of them returned home;” a less tragic ending, it must be admitted, than we are usually prepared to meet with on such occasions.

It was about this time, for the date is not exactly given (p. 47), that Abbot Whethamstede was on the point of getting involved in litigation in London for interfering with too high a hand in the serious matter of “ancient lights.” The Abbot’s inn, or hostel, in the City, was situate in the parish of St. Christopher le Stocks (now almost wholly occupied by the site of the Bank of England). Upon it a tenement abutted, <sup>4</sup> inhabited by a certain Lombard, in which were three small windows, looking upon the Abbot’s house. Being deemed a nuisance, no doubt, the windows were blocked up on the Combat between two men, in the King’s presence, in Smithfield. The accuser defeated, but pardoned.

The Abbot blocks up certain windows, looking upon his own hostel, in London.

<sup>1</sup> Fabyan, in his Chronicle, says that the names of the combatants were John Upton, appellant, and John Downe, defendant; and that both behaved so valiantly, that the King gave his full pardon to each.

<sup>2</sup> This we take to be the meaning of “grave omen” in the context.

<sup>3</sup> He was then eight years and a month old.

outside with oaken planks, by the Abbot's orders. Considerable murmuring followed of course, and the inhabitants, after calling John Gedeney to their aid, who had filled the office of Lord Mayor some two or three years before, sawed the planks asunder, and so recovered their light. The Abbot—"taking this amiss," a meeting of most of the City dignitaries, several of the most recent Lord Mayors in the number, was duly summoned by messenger,—but as to the result of their deliberations, or indeed any further action in the matter, we are left uninformed, as here the Chronicler stops short.

We have already met with Roger <sup>1</sup>Howsewyf (p. xxiv ante) as joining in the hue and cry on the occasion of the attack upon the inmates of Sopwell by William Wawe. Beyond the mention made of him in the present Chronicle, and, in some few instances, in the Annales, which follow it, nothing whatever of Roger's history, in all probability, has come down to us. Being an "apprentice-at-law," he seems to have been a sort of standing counsel and general adviser of the Convent, and ready to come to the Abbot's assistance on every emergency. From the following passage (p. 49), it would appear that he had already been in Deacon's orders, while practising the law ;—"On Saturday in the <sup>2</sup>Four Seasons, the Day "of the Invention of St. Oswin (March 11), a monk of "St. Edmund's, holding a benefice in London, <sup>3</sup>celebrated "orders in the Chapel of the Blessed Virgin Mary. "Upon the celebration whereof, William Rytone, Thomas ferred on him.

<sup>1</sup> The old form probably of the family name, "Hussey." The name "Hussey" occurs several times in Clutterbuck's History of the County of Hereford, but Roger Howsewyf is not alluded to.

<sup>3</sup> celebravit ordines. He was probably a Suffragan Bishop.

“ Blakney, and Richard Langley, monks of this church, “ received the order of the priesthood; and, together “ with them, Roger Housewyf, the <sup>1</sup> lawyer, who dwelt “ at Sopwelle. And on the same day the same monk, so “ beneficed in London, consecrated the Chapel for the “ burial of Abbot John, newly prepared, and nobly built “ at a great expense.” The Sepulchral Chapel of Abbot Consecration of the Sepulchral Chapel of Abbot Whethamstede.
 Whethamstede, it may be added, is still existing in the Abbey Church; but great as may have been the <sup>2</sup> outlay upon it, it is only remarkable for the simplicity of its workmanship. The stone with his sepulchral inscription, as given by Weaver, is no longer to be found, and upon the present slab is deposited, for the sake of protection, the noble Flemish brass which once covered the grave of Abbot Thomas de la Mare, in front of the high altar.

In p. 50, we have another account of the burning of a Burning of a Lollard at Maldone, in Essex.
 Lollard, with a singular inference as to the vindictiveness of his disposition, if not the virulence of his offence:—

“ On the last day of May, a certain ribald, a tiler of Essex,
 “ and a Lollard, tainted with the leprosy of heresy, set “ at nought all the Sacraments of the Church, and there“ fore suffered the penalty, at Maldone, of being burnt in “ the flames. And this man, before his death, asked that “ his body should not be burnt, and that he might have “ his wife and all his goods; and if these were granted “ to him, he would abandon his erroneous opinions; but “ if not, he would by no means believe in the Seven “ Sacraments of the Church. After he was burnt, a A neighbour dangerously wounded by a splinter of one of his bones.
 “ neighbour of his took up one of the bones of this same “ Lollard, and by some unlucky mischance was pricked
 “ in the hand by a splinter of the bone; and imme“ diately his hand and his arm swelled, and so great “ was the pain, that he cut them off; and this was a “ sign of remarkable vindictiveness, that a single bone

“ of a Lollard should be the cause of his neighbour “ having his hand and his arm cut off.” This man’s fate seems not to have come under Foxe’s notice, there being no mention of it in his Acts and Monuments.

A Lollard
priest burnt at Chelmsford.

On the translation of St. Wulstan (June 19) in the same year (1430), another Lollard, a priest, was burnt at Chelmsford (p. 51), after being degraded, “ William “ Caleys ” by name,—“ a most nefarious contemner and “ reviler of the Sacraments of the Church.” He is incidentally mentioned by Foxe (Acts and Monuments) in a single instance ; but no allusion is made to his fate.

Grant made by the Abbot for the new bells at Luton; and further promise made by him.

On the Day of St. Laurence (August 10) in the same year (p. 52), a deputation from Luton waited upon the Abbot at his manor-house of Tytenhangre, to ask him for a <sup>1</sup> subscription towards the peal of four bells which had been lately bought. With the courtesy which seems to have been one of his great characteristics, he had refreshments placed before them, and then presented them with the handsome sum of 100 shillings, payable by the hand of his purse-bearer, Brother Robert Ware ; adding a promise that, in case he should continue to hold the Abbacy for a further seven years, he himself would defray the entire cost of the fourth bell. As he died in the Abbacy more than <sup>2</sup> thirty years later, no doubt the promise was abundantly fulfilled.

Certain women imprisoned on a charge of plotting the King’s death.

We have a short notice in pages 56, 57, to the effect that in Christmas week in this year (A.D. 1430) certain <sup>3</sup> witches, seven in number, and belonging to different parts of the kingdom, were seized in London and thrown into the Fleet Prison, for plotting the death of the youthful King ; as to their ultimate fate, however, we are not informed.

<sup>1</sup> fine.

years, A.D. 1440–52, during which time John Stoke was Abbot.

<sup>3</sup> malefice. This reign was pro-life in such charges ; for example, the accusation, at a later date, of Margery Jordan, and of Alianor Cobham, Duchess of Gloucester, and her confessor, Bolingbroke.

On the Day of St. Prisca the Virgin (January 18), the Hermitage of Farley, near the church of Luton, was plundered by three robbers, who had previously pillaged some of the people at Dunstaple (p. 59). These, giving the alarm, pursued them as far as Barnet, where one of the thieves was slain by an arrow, and his body was buried at Monkyncherche. A second, who had also been wounded by arrows, was captured, and carried to London; while the third appears to have taken sanctuary at St. Martin's-le-Grand in the City, but was ultimately captured there, with certain relics of St. Luke the Evangelist in his possession, which he had stolen from the Hermitage.

The Hermitage of Farley robbed.

Fate of the robbers.

In p. 61 we read of the degradation of another priest, before delivery to the secular arm for death at the stake, Duke Humphrey and many others being present to view the spectacle:—"On the Day of St. Gregory (A.D. 1431) " an aged priest, unsound in mind, was degraded for his " heresy; who, persisting in his malice and iniquity to " the end, and putting faith in neither the Sacrament of " the Altar nor the Sacraments of the Church, was de- " livered to the flames in Smethefelde, and there burnt; " there being present Sir Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, Protector of the realm, and thousands of the people " of the City of London, of either sex, assembled there " to see this miserable sight." From Foxe's Acts and Monuments we learn that his name was "Thomas " Bagley," and that he was Vicar of Monenden (now Mundon), near Maldon in Essex. The tiler of Maldon already mentioned (p. xlix), a splinter of whose bone was productive of such disastrous results, was probably one of his converts.

Degradation and burning of a priest, for Lollardy.

On the Day of the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary (March 25) in this year, a disastrous fire occurred in the palace of Queen Johanna at Langley, several rooms being consumed, together with all the gold and silver plate, utensils, and furniture, contained therein;

lessness
of a

and all this, the writer tells us (p. 62), owing to the drowsiness and carelessness of a <sup>1</sup> minstrel belonging to the establishment, who neglected to take proper care of a lighted candle.

Fires at Luton and Little Walsingham.

Fires indeed seem to have been rife at this time: in p. 61 conflagrations are mentioned as having taken place at Luton in Passion Week and on Palm Sunday (A.D. 1431); and shortly after Easter (p. 62) a most disastrous fire occurred at Little Walsingham, in Norfolk; where four hostels, or inns, were burnt. In the following passage, the Chronicler, though unknowingly, is almost as bitingly satirical upon the holy feelings which the pilgrims to the shrine of St. Mary brought with them to Walsingham, as ever the free-spoken

<sup>2</sup> Erasmus was in after-days:—"By whom, or through what, this misfortune happened, no mortal knew; except that it might be from revenge for the excessive and unjust extortionate charges which the persons living in those inns had exacted from the pilgrims for their victuals."

A man hanged, and a woman burnt, near Bishop's Hatfield.

In the week after Palm Sunday in this year (p. 62), or "Passion Week," a man who was a tenant of the Bishop of Ely, and had been in the habit of stealing sheep and oxen, was tried and condemned to death at Hertford; and at the same time, a woman living at Bishop's Hatfield, who had been guilty of petty treason in the murder of her husband. The Bishop, no doubt, by reason of his being lord of the manor of the places where the crimes were committed,—though it is not distinctly stated in the context to that effect,—was determined to maintain "his franchise," his right of gallows, in other words. The culprits were therefore taken from their prison, probably the gaol at the New Gate of the Abbey of St. Alban's, to "a certain lane," near the town of Hatfield, where a new gibbet was erected, and the cattle-stealer hanged thereon. The woman was on the same spot subjected to a more dreadful fate,—“She left this world, being there by “ fire consumed to ashes.”

Beyond the scanty notices that have been transcribed from the Harleian MS. into the pages (63, 453) of the present Volume, and the few particulars in reference to him that may be gathered from <sup>1</sup>Fabyan's Chronicle, and the Annales of William Wyrcester, nothing probably has come down to us in reference to the Lollard and would-be reformer, Jack Sharpe, or William Maundeville, as Fabyan calls him. The following is the account given in the present Chronicle of a man who, from the boldness of his attacks upon the wealthy ecclesiastics of his time, seems to have been regarded as a rebel, and ultimately paid the penalty with his life:—“About this time (A.D. 1431) a certain rogue, tainted “ with Lollardy, and bearing three names, that is, William Maundvylle, William Perkyns, and John Scharpe, “ of <sup>2</sup>Wygmoreland, created a certain commotion among “ the people, by throwing about and dispersing written “ papers in London, Coventry, Oxford, and other towns,

Jack Sharpe, the Lollard, disperses writings against the retention of their possessions by certain of the religious.

<sup>1</sup> From Fabyan we learn that in Easter, 10 Henry VI. (A.D. 1432), there was an assembly of heretics at Abingdon, under William Maundeville, the “bailly” of the town, a weaver by trade, who called himself “Jak Sharpe,” of Wigmoreland, in Wales: and that Duke Humphrey, on hearing of this, either sent, or went in person, to take measures against them. Fabyan also states that this Maundeville confessed that he would have made priests' heads as cheap as sheeps' heads, and sold them at three, or even ten, for the penny. He was drawn, hanged, and beheaded, Fabyan says, at Ab-ingdon, in Whitsun week. From his alleged connexion with Wigmoreland, it seems not improbable that he was, or had been, a supporter of the claims of the Mortimers, or their heirs, to the crown; or at least was suspected as such. Wyrcester, who devotes five lines to him, in his Annales, says that Sharp was beheaded at Abingdon; with but few other particulars, all of which are included in Fabyan's account. Holinshed (Chronicle) makes Sharpe and Maundeville to be two different persons.

“ against the religious who held possessions. Upon “ whose iniquitous proceedings becoming known, the “ Duke of Gloucester, Protector of the realm, striving “ against this most iniquitous pest, hastened from Grene“ wych to Habyndone, to have this insurgent taken;
 “ who, by the aid of God, was taken at Oxford about the “ Feast of <sup>1</sup> Pentecost, together with the writers of his “ papers, and several others, seven in number. Which “ persons were drawn and hanged, and their master, John “ <sup>2</sup> Scharpe, <sup>3</sup> beheaded; whose head, being placed upon a “ stake on London Bridge, afforded a lamentable warning “ to all his followers.” A copy of one of the papers thus dispersed by Sharpe has been preserved in the present Manuscript, and is given in the Appendix (p. 453) to this Volume. It is in the form of a Petition, in English, to the King and the Lords of Parliament, setting forth that their large temporalities were wasted by the Bishops, Abbots, and Priors, throughout the realm, while their incomes could be spent in a manner much more beneficial to the kingdom at large. He therefore prays that the King will resume those temporalities, and, after retaining a portion of them in his own hands, will <sup>4</sup> endow 15 Earls, 1,500 Knights, 6,200 Esquires, and 100 houses of alms, with the remainder, who will spend the large yearly income thus provided for them in a manner more conformable to the general interests of the community. This singular proposition for disendowing

<sup>4</sup> Whether this proposition of Sharpe was borne in mind at the time of the Dissolution of the Monasteries, more than a century later, it is impossible to say. If not, it is a somewhat singular coincidence, that, with the view of enlisting the popular feeling in favour of the measure, it was promulgated that in place of the abbots, monks, friars, and nuns, there would be nominated and maintained forty new Earls, sixty Barons, three thousand Knights, and forty thousand soldiers, with their appropriate incomes, all to be supported out of the revenues of the suppressed Monasteries.

Bishops and Abbots alike is remarkable for its plain-speaking and earnestness ; and the petitioner is especially careful to remark, that it is only the high dignitaries of the Church that he aims at, and that he would leave untouched the temporalities of all Colleges, Chantries, White Canons, Cathedral Churches, Carthusians, Hospitallers, Crutched Friars, and all nuns and monks. The day of none of these, however, was come as yet ; a hundred years later, and in a common ruin fell alike Abbots and Priors, Monks and Nuns. For a couple of centuries or more before that period there had been no love in general between the Bishops and the Abbots of England ; those among the latter enjoying high rank and <sup>1</sup> exempt privileges, more especially. By abandoning their brother Abbots to the reforming zeal of Henry the Eighth, and the insatiate cupidity of his profligate courtiers, the Bishops aided in carrying out Jack Sharpe's programme to a certain extent ; and, while so saving themselves, paid off many a score of slights and insults, either real or imagined, for which exemption from their jurisdiction, on the part of some of the greater monastic institutions, had been the <sup>2</sup> pretext.

Sharpe's proposition for disendowing carried out to a certain extent at a later period.

Holy Writ to be found at the commencement of most of its Chapters,—these will form subjects for consideration in the Introduction to the next and concluding Volume. In it, also, an attempt will be made to verify some few passages quoted in the context of the present Volume, the exact references to which have thus far eluded identification.

William Shepey, a monk, applies for readmission to the Monastery, which, on becoming the Pope's Chaplain, he had left, nearly 40 years before.

Figurative description of the circumstances of his readmission.

Preliminary resistance of the brethren thereto.

Hic, ad portas humiliter perseveranterque pulsans, cum inundantia lacrymarum clamavit ad patrem Monasterii, dicens:—<sup>3</sup> “Pater, peccavi in cœlum et coram te, jam non sum dignus vocari filius tuus; quare, quæso, jam me de mundo revertentem clementer digneris recipere, et <sup>4</sup> fac me saltem sicut unum ex mercenariis tuis.” Pater vero, misericordia motus, decidit in collum ejus, dansque sibi osculum pacis, proferri jussit stolam monastici habitus, et <sup>5</sup> anulum, froccum, videlicet, et cucullam. Occisoque saginato congratulationis vitulo, celebrari fecit Capitulare convivium; ubi in medio fratrum sedens, ita eos <sup>6</sup> exhilaravit, dicens,—<sup>7</sup> “Epulari vos oportet jam, filii, et gaudere; quia frater vester, qui mortuus fuerat, jam revixit, qui aversus abiit, jam conversus contritus—que rediit, statque ad <sup>8</sup> ostium, instanter humiliter—que petens introitum. Videns frater <sup>2</sup> fœmineus quam melleum erat hoc pomum in gustu, quam aureum in visu, quam insuper melleum, aureum, ac argenteum, in olfactu, sibilo serpentino <sup>3</sup> consensit, muliebrique impetu pomum arripit, pleno ore momordit, plenumque de commigratione tentanti colubro consensum dedit. Consensu utique præstito, et peccato transgressionis in <sup>4</sup> habitu commisso, <sup>5</sup> imaginatum ingeniaturque est hincinde ea <sup>6</sup> qua valuit clandestina calliditate, quomodo frater lapsus, exuta immortalitatis cuculla, mortalem, per actum migrationis, induere posset tunicam, rejectoque habitu originalis justitiæ, ad statum lapsus posset procedere, ac primævum relinquere innocentie gradum. Unde ardenter adeo huic scrupuloso indultum est negotio, ut tandem Archiepiscopus medius fieret, et pro licentia fratris porrigeret preces, ac instantius supplicaret. Quod Paradisi pastor <sup>7</sup> percipiens, præintelligensque in Regula fore scriptum,—“Si infidelis discedere velit, discedat, “ne contaminet gregem totum,” tunicam migrationis fratri texuit <sup>8</sup> pelliceam, ac extra Paradisum eum emitens, licentiam, in forma quæ sequitur, dedit, ut Cantuariensis ecclesie terram <sup>9</sup> operaretur, et inhabitaret eam.—

At the Archbishop of Canterbury's request, the Abbot gives him leave to migrate.

Responso dato, et nuncio ad dominum a quo venerat jam reverso, accersiri fecit Abbas suos omnes consiliarios; cœpitque cum eis morosum maturumque agere tractatum super regimine suæ domus. Cumque diutius tractatum fuisset, atque discussum, quid convenientius in ea parte pro honore commodoque ecclesiæ esset agendum, tandem concorditer decretum fuerat, finaliterque decisum, ut singuli officarii, servientes etiam, ac ministri, qui per tempus paternæ absentiae a suis commode cessare possent oneribus, et honeste, ab impositis eis operibus plene desisterent; totaque utriusque regiminis potestas penes Dominum Johannem Blebury, Priorem pro tunc Monasterii, remaneret: haberet tamen sub se Prior iste duos fratres maturos, qui secum commensales fierent, singulaque agerent negotia forinseca, ac proventus de portione Abbatis provenientes colligerent fideliter, et ad manus præfati Prioris plenarie reportarent.

After an interview with the Archbishop, the Abbot arrives at Dover, and reaches Calais.

Quibus apicibus, cum litteris de passagio et escambio, habitis, accessit Abbas ad Archiepiscopum; a quo cum suam super suo negotio inter cætera assumpsisset instructionem, mox sumpta licentia Dovoriam petiit; ubi navem sero ascendens, mane Calisius, non absque stomachi fastidio, æquorisque periculo, pervenit. Quo cum applicuisset, fuissetque recordatus de promisso quod suis fecerat amicis, super scribenda certioratione de eventu æquoreæ remigationis, petiit a ministris calamum, fratresque hæsitantes certioravit per hunc modum.—

Quibus ita scriptis, assumpsit Abbas peregrinationis baculum et peram; iterque aggrediens, prosperis per-venit passibus ad Aquampendentem. Inde per lacum Bulsini ad Montem Flasconam; inde venit Viterbiæ, inde ad civitatem Saturni, quæ olim ab ejus nomine “ Saturnia,” modo vero “ Sutria,” corrupto vocabulo, dicta est.

The Abbot then proceeds to Rome, by way of Viterbo and other places.

Ab hac vero civitate per locum horroris et vastæ solitudinis pervenit ad urbem magnam, ubi Summus pro tunc residebat Pontifex, cum Cardinalibus suis. Cumque per biduum ibidem respirasset a laboribus, die tertio pervenit ad Palatium, coramque Summo Pontifice, post tam pedis, manus, genæque osculum, hunc brevissimum exorsus est sermonem.—

On reaching Rome, he has an interview with the Supreme Pontiff.

Abbas igitur, post varia interlocutoria de Rege, regno, regnique regimine, licentiam suam sumpsit ; salutatisque Cardinalibus et Episcopis hinc inde astantibus, ad suum hospitium, cum sua familia, celeriter declinavit.

A.D. 1423. Quos Articulos, cum hac Bulla Aurea, dum Abbas legendo transcurreret, et rursus relegendo ruminaret, accessit ad eum vir unus de Albertinorum consortio, qui, ejus ruminationem interrumpens, ei obtulit non parvum litterarum fasciculum, dicens hunc sibi fuisse de Anglia missum, bonorum, prout sperabat, nunciorum allativum. Cumque Abbas <sup>1</sup> oblatam sibi fregisset litterarum ligaturam, et omnium plenarie perlegisset tenorem, <sup>2</sup> subito, vultu sibi mutato, suspirare cœperat pro eo quod ex quarundam scriptura conceperat qualiter ea pax quæ omnem <sup>3</sup> exsuperat sensum, quæque tenacius glutine omnium connecteret viscera proximorum, non perfecte in absentia, prout optaverat in egressu, custodierat corda fratrum, intelligentiasque villanorum; immo paulisper tritam turbatamque perceperat, modum tamen perturbationis, et causam, penitus ignorabat. Unde calamum diutius jam pausantem ad opus jam exasperat, fratribusque temporalem administrationem habentibus in hunc modum litteras mandat.—

The Abbot receives letters from England.

He finds that dissensions exist in the Abbey.

He writes an expository letter to the brethren having the temporal government of the Abbey.

Post hæc, in anno prælationis hujus Abbatis quinto, cum ipse pater requiem haberet cum omnibus, nec esset aliquis, aut de eo tenens, aut sibi obediens, qui perturbare præsumperat pacem ejus, vidit pacis æmulus, et invidit, in ejusque inquietationem non modicam excitavit cor Archipræsulis Cantuariæ, sibi que suggestit, pro suorum retractione reverentialium,—<sup>2</sup>“Bella plus quam civilia” contra Abbatem movere.

A strife now arises between the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Abbot.

Unde quadam die, cum venissent coram ipso Archipræsule clerici singuli qui sibi assistebant in sua pendente metropolitana visitatione, affuit etiam inter ipsos sacerdos, ne dicatur Sathanas, qui comperta correxerat in Comitatu Hertfordiæ. Cui cum dixisset iste dominus,—<sup>3</sup>“Unde venis?” et ille respondisset,—“Circuivi terram, et Comitatum Hertfordiæ perambulavi, feci que in hiis quæ mandastis aliqualem, licet non plenariam, juxta vestrum desiderium, correctionem;” dixit iterum, <sup>4</sup>sed eloquio satis <sup>5</sup>ironico Archipræsul ad eum,—“Nunquid considerasti fratrem meum, Abbatem de Sancto Albano, quod non sit ei similis in toto illo Comitatu, vir simplex et rectus, ac recedens a malo?” Cui sacerdos respondens dixit;—“Domum et dominium hujus Abbatis vallavit Summus Pontifex exemptionis privilegio per circuitum, ita quod non poterit ordinaria potestas ullam extendere inquietationis manum in eum. The priest contrives to find out in the Abbot several causes of offence.

Egressus igitur sacerdos iste, doctor plus doctus disquietare quietos quam docere, eo animo officium inquisitionis exercuit, quo plus velle obesse quam prodesse visus fuit. Unde postquam comperiit quomodo Abbas de Sancto Albano decimas ecclesiarum appropriatarum laicis personis, sine licentia Archipræsulis, concederet ad firmam, quasdamque haberet cancellas non satis competentem pro voto parochianorum <sup>1</sup>reparatas, ac Cellas aliquas, speciali fulcitas privilegio, non comparentes in visitationibus suis; juris justitiam retrorsit in rigorem, intusque inhibitu exteriùs evomuit malitiæ venenum; protulit ac contra hos et illos multas, ac multiplices promulgavit sententias, in Abbatis injuriam non modicam, et virorum simplicium perturbationem.

Bad news brought to the Abbot.

Cumque talia ageret, et starent tam firmarii omnes quam Cellarum Priores vehementer attoniti, ecce! subito et insperato supervenit nuncius ad Abbatem, et dixit ei;—<sup>2</sup>“Boves arabant in agris appropriatis vestris ecclesiis in partibus nostris, et asinæ pascebant juxta eos; irrueruntque novi Sabæi, Archipræsulis, videlicet, ministri, ac pueros vestros, videlicet, sæculares firmarios, percusserunt censura spiritualis gladii, et evasi ego solus, ut nunciarem tibi.”

More bad news.

Cumque nuncius iste talia diceret, ecce! supervenit vir alius, et subjunxit in hiis verbis;—<sup>3</sup>“Commissarii Domini Archiepiscopi diviserunt se in tres turmas, interdictoque, suspensione, vel sequestro, invaserunt singulas quæ in finibus nostris possides ecclesias parochiales; ab oculisque tanti odii evasi ego solus, ut nunciarem tibi.”

Hæc Abbas audiens, et causam tantæ vexationis con- He attributes the cause of his annoyances to the Archbishop of Canterbury.
 cipiens, cum modesto maturoque vultu, aperuit os suum, et dixit;—“Dominus est Primas Angliæ, et Archiepi-

 “ita forsitan ipse fecit. Spero tamen alias, cum, visis “meis Privilegiis, melius avizatus fuerit, pœnitebit “ipsum quod me frustra sic afflixit.” <sup>2</sup> Unde in hiis omnibus non peccavit Abbas labiis suis, neque quid stultum contra istum dominum est locutus.

Altera autem die, cum in solemnibus cleri Convocatione The priest obtains further powers from the Archbishop, of annoying the Abbot.
 comparuisset rursus jam dictus sacerdos coram Domino Archiepiscopo, et dixisset sibi ille dominus, — “Cur “commovisti me, ut frustra Abbatem de Sancto Albano “affligerem, ecce! adhuc retinet innocentiam suam,” respondit sibi sacerdos;—<sup>3</sup> “Pellem pro pelle, cunctaque “quæ habet dabit homo pro anima sua. Nunc autem “jube me tangere os suum et carnem, constituereque “eum collectorem decimarum quæ in hac Convocatione “concedendæ sunt Domino Regi; et videbis quod “erumpet in blasphemias, et in faciem benedicet tibi.”
 Dixit ergo Dominus Archiepiscopus ad eum;—“Ecce!
 “hac conditione concedendæ sunt Domino Regi decimæ,

 “concedendi, excusetur ab earum collectione. In manu

The Abbot appeals to the Chancellor, and obtains exemption. etsi Abbatem percuteret gravi inquietationis ulcere, nequaquam tamen cum Job, viro justo, sedere decrevit in <sup>1</sup> sterquilinio; immo, rejectis hiis litteris mandatoriis, ascendit cum propheta viriliter ex adverso, pro domoque Domini se murum opponens, Cancellarium regni adiit. A quo, facta exhibitione Litterarum Patentium de non colligendis decimis, breve regium in exonerationem impositi oneris, in forma satis favorabili, impetravit. Quod Archiepiscopus audiens, infremuit vehementer in vitalibus, quasque aper, qui in irritatione iram conceperat, spumare ore cœperat, ac machinari media malignationis.

The Archbishop persists, in spite of the royal mandate; whereupon the Abbot takes further counsel. Tandem vero, post morsum labiorum diutinum, et pensionem taxatæ poenæ propter brevis regii conceptum, elegit amplius in manus Regis incidere, quam in male decisis mutare decretum, et novum, prout mandabat breve regium, pro Abbate de Sancto Albano collectorem deputare; sicque, mandato regio non obstante, certioravit in Scaccarium Dominum Abbatem de Sancto Albano, in Comitatibus Hertfordiæ et Buckinghamiæ deputatum per ipsum collectorem decimarum. De qua certioratione statim ut Abbas significationem sumpserat, convocari fecit singulos sui concilii jurisperitos, expositaque coram ipsis gravedine insueti oneris, petiit per ipsos tale excogitari juris remedium, quo posset vel iram tanti præsulis in clementiam convertere, vel omnem molestationis materiam a suis cervicibus, etiam si contradixerit Archiepiscopus, penitus remove.

A resolution is adopted, to resist the Archbishop; the Abbot, however, to wait upon him first. Disputata igitur litis materia, et causa gravedinis serius pertractata, tandem post modestam morosamque deliberationem, concordatum erat finaliter quod Abbas potius in iudicio contra Archipræsulem insurgeret ex adverso, quam insueta subiret pondera oneris, et ecclesiam <sup>2</sup> hactenus liberam premi permetteret servilis obsequiis ancillationis. The Priors of the Cells repair to the Abbey;
 and the Abbot addresses sundry questions to them.

Venientibus igitur Prioribus, et stantibus coram Abbate, inquisivit Abbas primo,—utrum suis præpositis singuli fratres claustrales in licitis et honestis obedientibus pro voto fuerant, viverentque inter se caritative; ac tria essentialia, obedientiam, scilicet, paupertatem, et continentiam, regulariter observarent.

Secundo,—nunquid Supplices et cæteri custodes Ordinis diligenter observarent claustrum, indifferenterque et cum maturitate irregulares insolentiarum corrigerent excessus, ac fratres pro viribus, juxta sententiam habitam, excitarent ad bonum.

Tertio,—utrum subditi sibi Cellerarii provide ac politice gubernarent singula sibi tradita, omnemque abhorrerent infidelitatem ac superfluitatem in gubernatione sua.

Quarto,—utrum Cellerarii Prioribus, Pioresque Abbatibus, singulis annis de omnibus receptis et expensis fidele faciant ratiocinium; ita quod juxta animas eorum certificationes Monasterio delatas fideliter reportari poterit de crescentiis et excrescentiis Prioratum eorundem. A. D. 1425, 6.

Quinto,—an grangiæ ve maneria, singulaque loca necessaria, sufficienter, juxta possessionem habitam, reparata fuerint; debitaque fiat diligentia in cultura agrorum, collectione granorum, cunctarumque dispositione rerum, cum quibus fratres sustentari habent.

Sexto,—nunquid in loco regularis regiminis sit aliqua corruptela abolendæ consuetudinis in <sup>1</sup> comessatione vel potatione, in vigilatione vel pausatione, in aliquavere altera, quæ bonos valeat corrumpere mores, aut scandalizare locum de mala fama.

Septimo,—nunquid aliqui fratres litteras scribunt, vel mittunt eulogias, munerave conferunt, aut recipiunt pecunias, nec in ea parte licentiam capiunt, nec libenter superiores in ea parte conscios habere volunt.

Octavo,—utrum inter claustrales hospes fuerit <sup>2</sup> Amon aut Absolon, Dathon aut Abiron, Giezi aut Judas, Simon aut Ananias, ambitiosusve ille <sup>3</sup> Lucifer qui ab alto decidit, quia appetiit amplius quam sibi licitum habere fuit.

Datis responsionibus ad has et alias jam propositas quæstiones, recesserunt præpositi, statimque venerunt cæteri, a quibus quæsitum fuit sub forma tali.—

Primo,—nunquid Piores taliter cum <sup>4</sup> Martha Mar-riam celebrent, quod utriusque vitæ, tam ad salutem animæ quam ad commodum Ecclesiæ, idonei professores merito dici possent.

Questions put by the Abbot to those subject to the Priors of the Cells.

A.D. 1425, 6. Secundo,—nunquid claustrales ad confessionem regulari modo accederent, ac Missas suas, juxta vim et effectum cujusdam Constitutionis in ea parte editæ, cotidie celebrarent.

Tertio,—nunquid in concordi claustralium cithara, aliqua fuerit lupina <sup>1</sup> chordula quæ non convenit cum cæteris; immo, in choro concordiæ causare solet de consuetudine distonationes.

Quarto,—nunquid in claustro sit frater aliquis qui ad instar hypocritæ faciem pingit palledine, interius tamen incorporat acervum scelerum, et habitu est tantummodo monachus, et non in mente.

Quinto,—nunquid sit inter eos aliquis, qui vel claustrum habet in odio, vel chorum in fastidio, in reverentia theatrum, vel in honore palatium, in veneratione venatica, vel in adoratione dulcia pocula et cibaria delicata.

Sexto,—nunquid in Claustris debito modo <sup>3</sup> observetur silentium, in Parliamentis attento studio legantur Constitutiones superiorum, in Capitulo justa infligatur correctio pro transgressibus, in Refectorio regularis apponatur refectio pro vescentibus, in Ecclesia pulsetur limitatis temporibus ad Horas Canonicas, in Dormitorio moderata fiat fratrum pausatio, et surgatur universaliter ab omnibus ad Matutinas.

Septimo,—nunquid aliqua facta fuerit boscorum prostratio, corrodiorum venditio, impignoratio jocalium, alienatio proventuum, aut feodi concessio ad terminum vitæ, absque specifica Abbatis licentia, et totius in ea parte Conventus collegio consentiente.

Octavo,—nunquid, juxta leges per religionem traditas, mulierum vitetur contagiosa societas, fuerintque fratres omnes ab omni specie libidinis se monachaliter continentes.

Nono,—utrum inter fratres servetur, juxta traditionem A.D. 1425, 6. regulæ, taciturnitas, sicque singuli linguas suas custodiant, ut non offendant in multiloquio, nec seram religionis aperiant citra debitum, aut infringant.

Decimo,—utrum universaliter in vestibus vitetur tam vilitas quam superfluitas, sitque frater ullus de nimia curiositate aut ruditate populari digitatione dignus.

Undecimo,—utrum juvenes omnes post reditum vacent jugiter studio, et assidue exerceant doctrinationem.

Duodecimo,—nunquid a fratribus fiant contractus clandestini, quibus procuratur medium ad peculium, dicanturque ipsi plus vacare lucro quam libro, et negotio quam contemplationi.

Tertio-decimo,—utrum fratribus singulis ministretur sufficienter de necessariis, nullique detur, qui ratione regitur, occasio murmurationis.

Libellatis responsibus ad hæc et alia petita varia, After due correction of offences, the Abbot addresses the brethren. et compertis maturo animo masticatis, processit Abbas ad correctionis officium; quo finito, et pœna pro excessibus regulariter imposita, allocutus est fratres per hunc modum.—

“ Viri fratres omnes, et qui in libertatem spiritus His exhortation.
 “ vocati estis.—Jam post has leves et breves quas hic “ fecimus correctiones,<sup>1</sup> hortamur vos omnes, ac exhorta-

 “ sunt iræ, rixæ, sectæ, invidiæ, hiisve similia, non Igitur, fratres, finem præsentis negotio imponentes, <sup>3</sup> hortamur vos omnes, qui <sup>4</sup> rectores spirituales estis, quatenus, si post nostrum recessum frater aliquis in aliquo delicto <sup>5</sup> præoccupatus fuerit in spiritu levitatis, curetis ipsum instruere, studeatque alter alterius portare onera, ac legem Christi claustraliter adimplere. Et nunc caritas Dei, communicatioque Sancti Spiritus, sit semper cum omnibus vobis."

The Abbot reports to the brethren that he has found deficiencies in the accounts of the Priors of the Cells.

Quibus dictis, et visitatione finita, recessit Abbas ad Monasterium; ubi cum exposuisset fratribus quomodo in visitatione sua plures comperisset defectus in compotis Priorum, quos ipsi in annis singulis reddebant in Capitulo, de eorum fratrum consensu et assensu, renovavit juramentum Priorum, decrevitque de cætero eos, in hujus <sup>6</sup> coercionem negligentiae, et pro omni removenda infidelitate, præstare juramentum, sub isto modo.—

The Abbot addresses the brethren, in Chapter assembled, at the Cell
of Tynemuth, upon the occasion of his Visitation.

Renovato quippe juramento, et Capitulariter promulgato, perrexit Abbas ulterius ad Cellas quas habebat in partibus Borealibus; ad Tynemuthamque perveniens, fratres, Capitulariter congregatos, allocutus est, in hiis verbis:—

Quibus dictis, et facta inquisitione in forma qua <sup>4</sup> alias dicitur, accessit Abbas ad Capitulum, et quamdam Ordinationem, super certis compertis editam, promulgavit Capitulariter per hunc modum.—

Acta Anni Octavi.

The Abbot enjoys quiet for a time.

He resolves to revive the suit of the Almoner against the Rector of Horpulle.

The Almoner returns to the Monastery, and the Abbot remains in London.

<sup>3</sup> Lapso <sup>4</sup> hyeme anni septimi, incipienteque vere anni octavi, incipiebant simul cum illo tempore prospera pacis succrescere, suspenditque Abbas sollicitudines ad tempus, ac requievit paululum a labore. Tandem tamen, cum vox insonuisset in suis auribus, quomodo juxta probaticam piscinam civitatis Londoniarum jacuisset, ad instar alterius hominis <sup>5</sup> Evangelici, per triginta annos et amplius <sup>6</sup> Eleemosynarius sui monasterii, expectans ibidem continue, nec suscipiens illum aquæ motum, qui causam contra Rectorem de <sup>7</sup> Horpulle habitam curare sufficeret, diutius jam languentem, mox ipse pausas quietis reposuit, pergensque Londonias, ac dictum Eleemosynarium in porticu sui hospitii <sup>8</sup> jacentem reperiens, taliter ei inquit :—“ Confrater mi, si vis sanus fieri, tolle “ grabatum tuum, et ambula ad claustrum Monasterii ;

“ miserationibus, nos talem post tuum recessum reperiemus nobis hominem, qui, cum aqua salutis mota
“ fuerit, tuam habebit causam languidam mittere curationis in piscinam.”

Redeunte igitur illo ad Monasterium, et relinquire post se causam quasi totaliter desperatam, remansit Abbas ibidem solus, secum satis sollicite deliberans, quid cautius consultiusve excogitari poterit pro salvatione ipsius. Tandem post deliberationem debitam, incidit illi concilium sanum, ut virum profundæ scientiæ, sinceriorisque amicitiae, Magistrum, videlicet, <sup>1</sup> Thomam Bekyngton, Decanum pro tunc Curiae de Arcubus, invitaret ad suam mensam, sibi que inter fercula exponeret totum processum rei; ac quæreret, cum leges regni sibi deficerent, utrum Canones Ecclesiae sibi in ea parte auxiliari possent.

A.D. 1427, 8.
He invites T. Bekyngton, Dean of the Arches, to dinner, and asks his advice.

Sicque factum est; veniente siquidem dicto Decano, et residente secum in sua mensa, cœpit Abbas post pauculas refectioes sermonem efferre sub ista forma:—

“ Doctor insignis, et amice mihi maxime fiducialis.

The Dean promises to consider the case.

Qui verbis Abbatis aurem benignam <sup>2</sup> accommodans, concessit gratanter illud facere, petiitque ut sibi mitterentur evidentiæ omnes, et libenter posterius vellet suum consilium in ea materia aperire.

By the Dean's advice, he states his case to the Bishop of Lincoln.

Visis igitur evidentiis, et intellectis, dedit mox con-silium ut Abbas in persona propria Episcopum adiret Lincolnensem, ipsumque honesto modo requireret, quatenus sibi in hac materia vel justitiæ complementum faceret, vel quod excusaret se penitus, et causam de-

 Qui huic consilio libenti animo adquiescens, perrexit veloci passu ad hospitium dicti Præsulis, perveniensque ad ejus præsentiam, exposuit sibi primitus quomodo jam per triginta annos, et amplius, Rector parochialis de Horpulle, suæ <sup>3</sup> Diocesis, quamdam retraxit pensionem annuam suæ ecclesiæ debitam, qualiterque nullam aliam habuit retractionis occasionem, nisi quia in edictione compositionis realis inter partes nullatenus apposuit patronus sigillum suum. Deinde facta sub brevibus hac expositione, requisivit ulterius modestiam ejus, ut <sup>4</sup> ipse sibi contra dictum Rectorem, nullam in lege Ecclesiæ legitimam retractionis causam habentem, vel faceret complementum justitiæ, vel, pro celeriori expeditione sui negotii, permetteret causam ad Curiam de Arcubus devolvi, ibique eum initialiter contra dictum Rectorem litis materiam intentare. Qui, causam requisitionis licitam honestamque fore conspiciens, mox illud facere consensit, scribensque excusatorias Officiali Curiae de Arcubus, plenarie ab examinatione dictæ materiæ se exoneravit. Quod Abbas multum gratanter acceptans,

At his request, the Bishop consents to case from

The Abbot gains this cause, partly through his own exertions, and partly through the favour shown by others.

Sicque non minus per industriam quam per gratiam et favorem recuperavit Abbas Johannes, Sextus, supradictam portionem; quæ in principio litis res adeo desperabilis fuerat, quod jaceret inter causas mortuas, totaliterque extra compotum relicta erat.

Another matter occupies the Abbot's attention.

<sup>2</sup> Pendente eodem anno octavo, et nondum finaliter terminato, cœpit res altera magis ardentem quam alias, (quia pro tunc magis <sup>3</sup> opportunum instabat reminiscendi tempus,) pulsare dicti Abbatis memoriam, petereque, quia jam diutius <sup>4</sup> quam decuit officiariorum incuriis neglecta fuerat, reformationem. Et res illa in specie fertur talis fuisse.—

gravis. Vendicabat utique prædecessor suus, ad suggestionem ipsorum qui loquuntur voluntarie potius quam secundum rationem, habere ibidem fugationem animalium in integrum, in solidumque recipere omne quod inde accrevit <sup>1</sup>commodum sive proventum. E contrario vero, clamitavit dictus dominus habere ibidem singulis alternis annis fugationem; sicque, ut ipse asseruit, habere consuevit, et pro hac sua consuetudine allegavit recordum totius patriæ, scriptaque et eviden-

 Abbas; sicque per annos et annos pendebat clamita-

 Abbas Johannes intelligens, et inter alia primo ad memoriam reducens, quomodo dictus dominus de Mym-mys dominus erat in operibus potens, in operibus valde subtilis; secundo, quomodo contra talem dominum posset de facili commoveri placitum, sed nequaquam ita faciliter obtineri victoria contra eum; tertio vero, quo-modo res satis levis pretii fuerat, pro qua contentio inter partes commota erat, deliberavit maturius penes se quid posset cautius consultiusve pro pacificatione ipsius contentionis, absque ulterioribus sumptibus, con-

The Abbot makes a footpath over Colneyhethe, and encloses the Eastern side.

Sopita siquidem in forma qua jam dicitur lite dicta, factaque Abbati super suis singulis demandis congrua desiderataque recompensa, mox ille dictæ brueræ portiunculam, quæ terra pro tunc fuerat deserta et invia, satisque inhabilis ad ambulandum, perviam fecit pedibus, evulsis illis omnibus quæ hominum posuerant offendicula in itineribus suis; deinde versus partem ipsius Orientalem fossam erexit, et palicium, fortiterque communiens singula, ruralia exclusit animalia, ne de cætero, ut alias, haberent conculcare eam.

Here removes the shrubs on the Western side, and turns the ground into pasture land.

Quibus ita peractis, perrexit ulterius ad partem Occidentalem nemoris, ibique nulla pene alia præterquam vepres et frutices reperiens crescentia, mox illas omnes eradicari jusserat, dumosque evacuans, et tribulos, glebam prius sterilem posterius in pasturam multum fertilem faciebat.

Processus cujusdam concordie, factæ inter Abbatem et manerii de la More in Rykmersworthe possessorem. A.D. 1428, 9.

<sup>1</sup> Pergente vespera anni octavi, orienteque aurora anni noveni, oriebatur simul cum ea lux recordationis et reminiscentiæ, qua Abbas sensu irradiatus cogebatur recenter recolligere quomodo in <sup>2</sup> Ramatha de Rikemersworthe erat vir quidam, cui etsi Helcana nomen fuerat, cum ipso tamen Helcana duas uxores in domo sua, superbiam, scilicet, et subtilitatem, possidebat. Quarum altera, videlicet, subtilitas, quia stabat parumper sterilis, nec aliquam procreaverat sobolem, in complacentiam viri ejus, affligebat eam sua æmula, angebatque vehementer, ac exprobrabat, quasi a conceptu totius sobolis <sup>3</sup> conclusisset jam Dominus vulvam ejus. Ipsius igitur irritata sermonibus cœpit libidini conceptus injuriosi operam impendere; cognitaque per suum virum, talem fertur sobolem concepisse, quæ nequaquam, ut alter Samuel, omnibus diebus vitæ suæ in templo, Domino deservierat; <sup>4</sup> immo verius, ut novus <sup>5</sup> Heliodorus, pro omnibus suis viribus, templum Domini infra Monasterium Sancti Albani juribus suis et redditibus spoliare laborabat.

Quod Abbas advertens, perpendensque jam transisse annos et annos postquam filius adultus conspirasset una cum patre in exhæredationem sui juris, differre ulterius moras credidit esse periculum, convocansque ad se suos conciliarios, eos alloquebatur per hunc modum:—"Viri pollentes ingeniis, in politicis melius experti, et ratione plurimum <sup>6</sup> abundantes. — Est vir

Ante diem festum Paschæ anni decimi prælationis Abbatis Johannis Sexti, sciens Abbas dictus quia jam venit <sup>2</sup> hora illa in qua habebat ipse, cum aliis coelectis de clerimonia, transire de claustro suæ domus ad Patrem et Præpositum <sup>3</sup> Generalis Concilii Basiliensis, cum dilexisset suos qui erant secum in hoc claustro, ita in finem dilexit eos, ut, quemadmodum Christus, cœna habita cum discipulis, panem accepit, et calicem, benedicensque dedit illis in salvificam utriusque substantiæ refectionem; ita etiam et ipse, facta epulatione cum fratribus, pennam sumpsit, et sedulam, scribensque ordinationes varias, tradidit eas illis, non minus in promotionem honestatis, quam in totius labentis reipublicæ conservationem.

The Abbot deems it to be his duty to pen certain Ordinances for the benefit of the brethren.

Viderat enim in primævis suæ prælationis temporibus, assidueque posterius reposuerat ante suos oculos, quam grandis et ingens esset dominicus ager suæ curæ commissus, quam paucique et quam rari sub ipso operarii, qui fideliter prudenterque laborare sciverant pro honesta utilique, ac necessaria, cultura ipsius. Et propterea semper in mente habuit, quomodo unum cum altero, honestum, videlicet, cum necessario, ad similitudinem cæterorum cœnobiorum, promovere posset. Deliberans igitur diutius, diutiusque discutiens, tandem penes se concluderat opus aggredi arduum, et quasi in suo adversanti sæculo impossibile; novos, videlicet, perquirere redditus, et eos ad finem per ipsum propositum in perpetuum applicare; sicque, <sup>4</sup> sed non absque quodam

The Abbot enjoins that these Ordinances shall be laid up among the archives of the house.

Postquam Abbas dictus scripsit verba legis hujus, complevitque ea ad notabile laudabileque incrementum suæ domus, præcepit Levitis qui portabant <sup>3</sup>arcam fœderis, fratribus, videlicet, illis qui claves habebant, et thesauriæ custodiam Conventus, ut tollerent librum voluminis hujus, ponerentque in archivis suæ domus ; quatenus jaceret ibidem in testimonium contra illos omnes, qui aut facta prædecessorum conabantur infringere, aut fuerunt proni magis ad utendum perquisitis, quam circa novorum perquisitionem in forma simili desudare.

The Abbot predicts that, after his death, the brethren will fall away from his injunctions.

Et post id præceptum subintulit, inquirens per hunc modum,—<sup>4</sup>“ Congregate ad me omnes natu majores, et loquar, audientibus ipsis, sermones paucos.” Venientibus utique ipsis, ac astantibus in præsentia ejus, adjecit ulterius, dicens ; — “ Novi, fratres, melius novi ; quod dolenter refero, quomodo post mortem meam inique agetis, citoque declinabitis a via quam præcepi vobis. <sup>5</sup>Sed consulo, cavete melius, quia in illa hora occurrent vobis mala ; aliterque quam creditis, <sup>6</sup>sentietis gladium ultionis.”

A.D. 1430, 1. Processus Apostolicæ confirmationis super Ordinationibus superius recitatis.

The Abbot, apprehending that some may attempt to invalidate his recent Ordinances, addresses a Supplication, for their confirmation, to the Pope.

<sup>1</sup>In vigilia matutina anni undecimi prælationis Abbatis Johannis, superius nominati, respexit Abbas dictus super Ordinationes prius per eum piissimo zelo editas, reduxitque satis recenter ad memoriam, quomodo, adhuc eo vivente et ingrediente, cum fratribus satis contentiose egerunt eorum quidam in permutationem ipsarum. Suspiciens igitur vehementer, vehementiusque conjecturans, quomodo multo magis contentiose agerent post mortem ipsius, quatenus contra omnes tales invocaret tam cælum quam terram, incurrereque faceret ipso facto Dei Omnipotentis, suique <sup>2</sup>Supremi Vicarii hic in terris, perpetuam indignationem, quamdam Supplicationem, pro impetranda Apostolica confirmatione, ad Curiam Romanam direxit, eamque sub forma quæ hic sequitur, Domino Apostolico porrigi procuravit.—

The Prior declines to receive the Letter, whereupon the bearer leaves it.

Prior, litteras has intuens, et venenum præjudicii sublatare conjiciens, eas acceptare renuit, causasque refutationis referens, <sup>2</sup> hortabatur gerulum, ut eas ad dominum suum iterum apportaret. Ille tamen, mandatum habens in contrarium, nullo modo ei acquiescere voluit ; immo, vellet nollet, dimisit eas penes ipsum Priorem, et recessit. Recedens utique cum fellis amaritudine, et ad præsentiam sui domini perveniens, mox, ut moris est talium, <sup>3</sup> aperuit os suum ad mendacium, nunciavitque satis mendaciter litteras magni Præsulis miseri Prioris conculcatas a vestigiis, ac præsularem nuncium varia ab ipso tulisse, et <sup>4</sup> multifaria genera exprobrationum.

The Bishop is falsely told that the Letter has been trodden under foot.

Præsul, litteras suas conculcatas audiens, infremuit vehementer in visceribus, juravitque per cælum et terram, perque Viventem in sæcula sæculorum, quod potius, ut serpens, terram comederet, quam in male juratis rescinderet fidem, et pauperem priorulum ab onere, injuste imposito, juridice exoneraret. Sicque patet hic primo, quomodo per deputationem Vicecomitis exoneratus erat Prior auctoritate Curiæ, licet implicite, ab imposito onere collectionis decimalis. Pateat etiam secundo, qualiter lata promulgataque pro tunc fuisset sententia pro parte Prioris, si non obviasset timor talis, qui cadere solet sæpius etiam in constantes viros; timor, videlicet, indignationis omnium Episcoporum Archiepiscoporumque Angliæ; qui, una cum Thesaurario Cancellarioque regni cohærebant dicto Norwicensi Episcopo in sua minus canonica impositione.

The result is, that the Prior of Bynham is temporarily relieved from the duties of Collector of the tenths.

A.D. 1433. Pateat itaque tertio, quomodo ipse aerem verberat, lavat<sup>1</sup> laterem, littusque perarat, qui in Convocatione cleri intentat materiam litigii, libertatemque regiam annullare laborat.

The Bishops ultimately withdraw their original resolution as to the collectorship of the tenths.

Nam videntes Episcopi se in sua Convocatione per additionem clausulæ præjudicialis inaniter laborasse, fecerunt posterius gratis, quod prius rogati recusarunt facere; penitus abraseruntque, absque instantia aliqua, conditionem jam dictam de concessione sua.

Processus cujusdam replicationis solemniss in audientia publica inter Abbatem et Episcopos Eboracensem et Norwicensem, in materia supradicta.

The Abbot of St. Alban's and the Bishop of Norwich argue the question before the Justiciars and Barons of the Exchequer.

Interim, dum inter Regem et Priorem, immo verius, inter Episcopum et Abbatem, res taliter pendebat sub litigio, limitati fuerunt dies varii per Radulphum Cromewelle, Dominum de Tatersale, Thesaurarium regni; in quibus diebus, præsentem eodem Thesaurario, comparuerunt coram omnibus regni Justiciariis, Scaccariique Baronibus, ambæ partes, cum ipsisque varii legisperiti, ad perorandum et persuadendum quid juris esset in tanto litigio dependenti.

One great day in especial, at the Friars Preachers, before the dignitaries of the realm, Archbishops, and Bishops.

Inter quos dies erat unus apud<sup>2</sup> Fratres Prædicatores omnium dierum maximus, ac adeo grandis, quod nequaquam sibi similis, saltem in simili materia, nostris temporibus fuerat visus. Nam in illo die comparuerunt pro parte Episcopi Norwicensis ambo Capitales Officarii Domini Regis, Cancellarius, scilicet, regni, et Thesaurarius. Comparuerunt etiam cum ipsis ambo Archiepiscopi, et, cum illis, Præsules quasi omnes de Provincia Cantuariensi. Pro parte vero Abbatis Sancti Albani, comparuit Abbas ipse solus, in utroque tamen jure satis sufficienti concilio communitus.

known as "Black Friars."

Comparentibus ergo pluribus contra unum, unoque in A.D. 1433. causa veritatis audacter contra plures, cœperunt legisperiti hinc inde, juxta assignationem Thesaurarii, dicere; illi, videlicet, qui erant ex parte Domini Norwicensis, in annullationem totius processus, et, quasi processum fuisset in placito minus juridice, totam causam iterum replacitandam repostulare; isti, videlicet, qui erant ex parte Abbatis, in improbationem conditionis præjudicialis, ac ad probandum quomodo totum id quod in Convocatione factum fuerat, factum erat tanquam coram non suo iudice; et propterea nullius esse roboris aut vigoris in sua lege. Auditis utique variis per satis notabile tempus, jussit tandem regni Thesaurarius omnes legisperitos recedere; remanere tamen partes, ad audiendum quid iudices dicturi essent pro finali litis decisione.

The points contended for, by the lawyers on either side.

The lawyers are ordered to withdraw.

Recedentibus quippe legisperitis, cœpit Dominus Archiepiscopus Eboracensis, vir facundus eloquio, profundusque sermone, replicare contra Abbatem Sancti Albani, primo sub tali verborum serie:—

Arguments of the Archbishop of York against the Abbot.

“ Confrater mi, Abba Sancti Albani.—Triplici motivo “ ostendi poterit, quare vestrum Priorem collectorem “ decimarum de necessitate esse oportebit. Primum “ motivum est istud.—Rex non potest ab Episcopis “ illam libertatem tollere, quam illi noscuntur hæreditarie, ut in jure suæ ecclesiæ, possidere: <sup>2</sup> sed Episcopi omnes hæreditarie, ut in jure suæ ecclesiæ, hanc libertatem possident, quod omnes ad colligendum habiles et <sup>3</sup> idoneos infra suas <sup>4</sup> Dioceses existentes collectores decimarum indifferenter deputare possent.
 “ Ergo,

A.D. 1433. “Secundo sic.—Si Rex ex sua posset prærogativa “personam unam infra Episcopi <sup>1</sup>Diocesim taliter <sup>2</sup>li“bertare per locum, ab assimili posset etiam et alteram, “et ita, eadem ratione, tertiam et quartam; et sic, ex “consequenti, omnes existentes infra <sup>1</sup>Diocesim illam.
 “Et ita ex consequenti devolveretur collectio decima-“rum ad Episcopum; quod omnium absurdorum repu-“tatur absurdissimum, in opinione confratrum meorum.
 “Tertio sic.—Rex violans conditionem suæ Curiaë, “cassat consequenter concessionem fundatam super tali “conditione. Verbi gratia;—si communitas regni, in “solemni Curia regii Parlamenti, concedat eidem Regi
 “unam integram quintam-decimam sub tali conditione, “quod ipse haberet huic communitati super singulis
 “suis transgressionibus generaliter perdonare; si ipse
 “Rex posterius hanc conditionem ejiceret, evacuaret “ex consequenti concessionem; patet, cum sit fundata “super eandem. Ergo, a simili:—si clerus regni in “sua concedat solempni Convocatione unam integram “decimam Domino Regi, sub tali conditione, quod “nullus collector illius integræ decimæ, aut partis “ipsius, deputandus, obtentu cujus immunitatis aut “privilegii regii, in ea parte concessi aut concedendi, a “collectione dictæ integræ decimæ, aut partis ejusdem, “prout ipsum collectorem deputari contigerit, quovis“modo debeat excusari; si ipse Rex hanc conditionem “rejiciat, evacuat ex consequenti dictam concessionem, “quæ ab ipsa conditione dependet. <sup>3</sup>Ergo.”—

 “ variis quomodo vestrum oportebit Priorem a sua Abbot.
 “ libertate recedere, acquiescereque de necessario de-

“ Et primum meum motivum est istud.—Ille meretur “ regiam libertatem amittere, qui citatus non comparet “ ubi agi poterit de ipsius regie libertatis renovatione :
 “ <sup>1</sup> sed talis est Prior Prioratus de Bynham. Nam ipse “ citatus fuit ad comparandum in solemnibus cleri Con-“ vocatione, ubi agi poterit de sue regie libertatis “ annullatione ; et tamen, nec per se nec per procura-“ ratorem ibidem comparuerat ; ergo, illa libertate, prop-“ ter contractam negligentiam, merito privari potest, “ et debet. Nec juvat, propter causas varias, si dicet “ quod suus Abbas huic Convocationi interfuit, ibi“ demque pro eo canonicam, per viam reclamationis, “ defensionem fecit. Tum primo : — quia Abbas suus
 “ in ea Convocatione contra conditionem supradictam “ reclamavit ore tenus, et non in scriptis ; et talis re“ clamatio <sup>2</sup> apud juristas invalida censetur, et ineffec-“ tualis.

“ Tum secundo : — quia Abbas suus, prout patet per “ certificationem Domini Cantuariensis, in verbis sue “ reclamationis, mentionem tantummodo fecerat pro se “ et pro sua ecclesia ; ergo, nullatenus extendi debet ad “ alia ab ipsa ecclesia dependentia membra.

“ Tum tertio : — quia Prior dictus placitans est, ac “ placitabilis, in persona propria ; veluti plane liquet ex “ processibus variis in utroque jure sub suo nomine “ prosecutis. Sed si ad eum pertineat in utroque jure

 “ non ad Abbatem, pro eadem reclamare in Convoca-

 “ Secundo sic.—Ille juxta regulas juris suam liber-

 “ quia ille in sua radice, ut, puta, in suo Abbate, “ assidue sua abutitur potestate. Abbas enim suus “ assidue, contra concessam sibi libertatem, decimas

 “ Tertio sic.—Unusquisque pro voto proprio <sup>4</sup> rece-

 “ proponam contra vos æquitatem; hoc est, objicientibus “ reobjiciam, et posterius respondebo per ordinem

 “ Rex, qui est in regno Angliæ capitalis dominus

A.D. 1433. “ Modo palam constat omnibus quomodo dicta Ecclesia Sancti Pancratii eo tenore Monasterio Cluniacensi subjicitur,—quod ab omni onere collectionis decimalis, auctoritate saltem ordinaria <sup>1</sup> imponendo, totaliter exoneretur. Est enim Cella domus illius, eodemque cum ipsa gaudet privilegio libertatis.

“ Patet etiam per Bullas varias ; et primo, per Bullam Papæ Kalixti Secundi, qui primo, juxta varios, scripsisse legitur hujusmodi apices pro exemptione a jurisdictione episcopali. Ipse etenim primitus inter dominos Apostolicos a suo <sup>2</sup> obtinuit consanguineo, Romanorum Imperatore, Henrico Quarto, ut ecclesiæ cathedrales ubique infra suum imperium liberam haberent electionem, liberiusque acciperent electi suas investuras a Romano Pontifice, ac liberius gauderent ubique in suis <sup>3</sup> Diocesisibus, post has investuras, ordinaria jurisdictione. Prius etenim tam Imperatores quam alii principes inferiores investierunt ad libitum tam Præsules quam Abbates, posueruntque ecclesias, de novo per ipsos erectas, in eo in quo placuerat genere libertatis.

The Bishops are indignant, and meet in Convocation at St. Paul's, to take measures against the Abbot and the Prior.

Interea etiam, dum dictus Abbas tam potenter defendebat causam sui Prioris, infremuerunt vehementer in visceribus omnes quasi regni Præsules. Convenientes apud Sanctum Paulum per viam Convocationis, in unum meditati fuerunt varia, Deo tamen disponente, finaliter inania, adversus jam dictum Abbatem, adversusque exiguum Priorem suum. Meditati enim fuerunt primo, quomodo reclamationem, quam Abbas pro defensione sui Prioris prætenderat, possent totaliter destruere, probareque nullam talem per ipsum Abbatem in Convocatione cleri factam fuisse. Secundo, cum in hac sua probatione deficerent, qualiter ipsam reclamationem invalidam ineffectualemque in jure Ecclesiæ reddere possent. Tertio, cum etiam in illo errarent, quomodo conditionem <sup>1</sup>præjudiciale[m] alias in concessione decimarum annexam rursus possent amittere, sicque vincula regiarum Litterarum Patentium dirumpere, projicereque totaliter a suis <sup>2</sup>cervicibus illud servitutis jugum, quo coartantur in suis <sup>3</sup>Dioecibus personas limitatas, et nequaquam <sup>4</sup>indifferenter omnes, deputare collectores decimarum.

They are foiled in their attempt, by false testimony, to prove that the Abbot had made no protest in Convocation.

<sup>5</sup>Sed in hiis omnibus Deus ille, qui habitat in cœlis, irridebat eos. Quia dum ipsi pro primo adducerent plures ex clero testes fragiles, ne dicatur falsos, ad testificandum cum ipsis, quomodo nec Abbas præsens in fine Convocationis fuerat, nec ullam contra dictam conditionem, dum legebatur in publico, reclamationem faciebat, mox, quasi in ira eis locutus fuisset Dominus, steterunt attoniti omnes, erubescabantque vehementer de testificationibus suis. Nam in testificatione omnium ita testificantium, extraxit Abbas de sinu suo suam, per

The Bishops attempt to retain the clause in the grant by Convocation, obnoxious to the Abbot's privileges.

Finiente siquidem Abbate, cœperunt Episcopi varii etiam pro jure suæ ecclesiæ protestari, instareque ulterius penes clerum, quatenus nullo modo permetterent Abbatem habere in rejectione clausulæ intentum suum. Quod ipse percipiens, comparuit ibidem de die in diem deinceps, et semper, cum necesse fuerat, opposuit verba reclamationis. Tandem vero, veniente Convocationis die ultimo, lectisque coram Domino Archiepiscopo singulis actibus Convocationis, mox cum venisset lector ad clausulam illam præjudiciale[m] super collatione decimarum, exsurrexit Abbas, protestabaturque iterum jam tertio, in hiis verbis.—

Et harum prima erat pars actrix, Dominus, videlicet, Willelmus Alnewik, Episcopus Norwicensis, qui prælationis temporibus adeo ferox pugnaxque fuerat, ac audacia plenus, quod nec jaculo rationis, nec gladio<sup>1</sup> exhortationis, nec aliquo alio hujusmodi præliationis instrumento, retrorsum volebat recedere; <sup>2</sup>immo verius, ut alter gigas inexorabilis, instare semper audaciter incessanterque, pro viribus, in annullationem regię libertatis, ac, ex consequenti, in captivationem supradicti sui Prioris, decertare. Whitman, after taking advice, appoints his proctor, and appeals to the Court of Rome, and the Court of Arches. Quod dictus Ricardus audiens, perrexit protinus cum spiritu recalcitrationis ad viros pravi sensus perversique <sup>1</sup> consilii, petiitque ab ipsis aliquod remedium, in <sup>2</sup> annullationem dictæ <sup>3</sup> suspensionis, pro congruo <sup>4</sup> selario, sibi dari. Qui litem libentius amplexantes quam legem, gladiumque cupientes mittere potius inter partes quam pacem, perversum, in suam confusionem, dabant ei <sup>5</sup> consilium; persuadebantque ut ad provocandum et appellandum sibi constitueret procuratorem; cujus ope et auxiliis omnes, ut illi affirmaverant, declinare posset supradicti Archidiaconi molestationes. Qui, illis animo gaudenti <sup>6</sup> consentiens, perrexit protinus ad quemdam Ecclesiæ Sancti Albani <sup>7</sup> alumnum, <sup>8</sup> sed degenerem, eumque suum procuratorem constituens, appellavit ad Curiam Romanam, et pro tuitione ad Curiam de Arcubus, hoc est, ad Curiam Cantuariensem.

The Archdeacon sends letters mandatory to the Vicar of Rikmersworthe, for the citation of Whitman. Interim, dum talia faceret dictus suspensus, processit ulterius præfatus Archidiaconus in forma juris; scribensque litteras mandatorias Magistro Henrico Burwasshe, perpetuo Vicario Ecclesiæ Parochialis de Rikmersworthe, mandavit ut dictum Ricardum pronunciaret ab ingressu ecclesiæ fuisse, et esse, propter suam multiplicem contumaciam, suspensum; citaretque ulterius ad comparandum et dicendum causam rationabilem, quare ad graviora juris procedere non deberet contra eum.

PARLIAMENTO SUPER ABBATEM S. ALBANI PRIMITUS

Temporibus ultimis Regis Ricardi, a Conquæstu Secundi, promotoris et fautoris Westmonasterii præcipui, in Parlamento per eum apud Westmonasterium congregato, post Missam de Spiritu Sancto, ut moris est, per Cancellarium Archiepiscopum solemniter <sup>2</sup> celebratam, Dominus Johannes Motte, tunc Abbas Monasterii Sancti Albani, olim Cellerarius ejusdem, et Capellanus sui proximi prædecessoris, Domini Thomæ Abbatis, in jure ejus solito, juxta Episcopos consedit. Quam sedem Abbas Westmonasterii, tardius adveniens, eidem nitebatur præripere; <sup>3</sup> sed ea vice, sicuti et aliis vicibus, non est permissus, unde juxta et inter dominos ex alia parte consedit.

In crastino vero Abbate Sancti Albani absente, litigium, seu jurgium, cunctis ridiculosum, ortum fuerat inter eundem Abbatem Westmonasterii et Priorem Christi Cantuarie de prima sede sessione. Quo Comiti Northumbriae, eo die tarde venienti, per suos pares et alios <sup>4</sup> relato, reponit præsentem non fuisse, Abbas,

Quibus dictis, Dominus Abbas Sancti Albani, per fratrem Willelmum Wyntrushylle, Capellanum ejus, qui aderat, relatis, consilio pariter et instinctu dominorum et aliorum de suo consilio, nitebatur honestiori modo quo poterat jus suum defenderet; et Domino Regi et aliis dominis, qui adhuc supererant, qui hoc viderant, per se et alios declarare; pro eo quod omnes pene status regni qui hæc viderant, fuerant interim de medio sublatis, præter Dominum Johannem, Ducem Lancastriæ, et Dominum Edmundum, Ducem <sup>3</sup> Ebraci, et Dominum tunc Henricum Percy, Ricardum Dominum de Cobeham, Ricardum Scrope, Dominum Guidonem de Bryen, ac Reverendum Patrem <sup>4</sup> Dominum Willelmum Wykham, Wintoniensem Episcopum, et paucos alios, qui asseruerunt se suo tempore hæc audisse <sup>3</sup> inter et vidisse. <sup>5</sup> Sed ne <sup>6</sup> majestatem regiam, eidem Abbati Westmonasterii amicissimam, offenderet, accessit ad eum post Parliamentum in crastino, in sua sede regia <sup>7</sup> sedentem, et transitum populi expectando: flexis genibus supplicavit, exorans ut, tanquam advocatus et fundator sui monasterii, ejus jura et privilegia conservare dignaretur, et ipsum suis privilegiis, in honorem dicti Sancti et loci, sicuti sui prædecessores egerant, gaudere permetteret de sua regia benignitate; informans Regem de omnibus prænotatis.

“martyr Angliæ esse dinoscitur, sic volumus quod Abbas “ejusdem loci in omni loco et ordinis dignitate inter
“omnes Abbates Angliæ primus habeatur.”

Qua clausula per Dominum Regem visa, et per dictum Capellanum Regi perlecta, Rex, facie serena et hilari, respondens,—“Nos volumus quod guadeas privilegiis, “juribus, et libertatibus, tui monasterii et tuorum præ-“decessorum, concessis.”

Post paucos dies, ad procurationem Abbatis Westmonasterii, ut creditur, Rex accersivit dictum Abbatem Sancti Albani, per quemdam servientem ad arma, ad suum colloquium; supplicans, potius quam injungens, ut permetteret Abbatem Westmonasterii alternis diebus in Parlamento <sup>2</sup> residere, quoadusque inter eosdem foret aliter discussum. Quod etiam, licet animo renitenti, vultu benevolo concessit, recolens illud Sapientis,— “Indignatio Regis præco est mortis,” et illud poeticum:

“Est orare Deum species violenta <sup>3</sup> jubendi, “Et quasi nudato supplicat ense potens.”

Supplicavit etiam Domino Regi quatenus de suis Parliamentis et consiliis, propter ejus senium et impotentiam, ipsum haberet amodo excusatum. Cui Rex consentire noluit, asserens suum consilium et sibi similem sibi et suo regno plurimum <sup>4</sup> opportunum.

Voluit tamen Abbas Westmonasterii in Parliamentis pacificis postmodum, ut alii, præsidere; <sup>5</sup> sed explorata præsentia Abbatis Sancti Albani ibidem, suam præsentiam a Parlamento voluit totaliter absentare, usque ad

Processu vero temporis, idem Abbas in plurimum, quid propter suam humilitatem et litteraturæ inscientiam, suam sessionem in Parliamentis, sibi debitam, deperire permisit, sinens Priorem Cantuariæ aliquotiens supra se <sup>4</sup> considerare, et Abbatem Westmonasterii; nolens de hac materia, prout <sup>5</sup> vecors fuit, neque dominis neque aliis dignis personis pro tuitione privilegiorum suorum in hac parte viriliter elaborare, <sup>2</sup> sed segniter permittere infirmari.

Altera vero, rubea Salvatoris nostri sanguine, in ejus flagellatione conspersa, denotat ejus victoriam et honorem; cujus columna, ut superius, protenditur a basi Virtutis usque ad capitale turris Honoris. In quibus columnis scribuntur exterius insignia Passionis, versibus subsequētib:—

“ Vincla, flagella, minæ, probra, sputa, columna,

“ <sup>1</sup> spinæque,

“ Derisus, colaphi, nudatio, lancea, clavi,

“ Cum calamis, felle, crux, laus fuit ista fidei.”

Et ne aliquis dona solius Dei sibi fallaciter attribuat, in manibus angelorum, in dictis turribus consistentium, scribuntur hii versus:—

“ Nil Deus in nobis præter sua dona coronat.”

Assunt etiam ibidem duo angeli, a curia cœlesti destinati, unigenitum Dei Patris Filium in agonia suæ <sup>3</sup> Passionis consolaturi, et ejusdem gloriosam victoriam, hominum salvationem, et decimi ordinis angelici deperditi restaurationem, eidem cœlesti curiæ relaturi. Et ut ingens memoria tantæ gratitudinis Christi mentibus Christicolarum firmiter adhæreat, suam quoque miseriam <sup>4</sup> humillime recognoscat, inter historiam Resurrectionis et Passionis sic scribitur:—

“ Mors tua, mors Christi, <sup>5</sup> foedus <sup>6</sup> mundi, gloria cœli,

“ Et dolor inferni, sint memoranda tibi.”

Et,—

“ In cruce sum pro te; qui peccas, desine, pro me;

“ Desine, condono, pugna, juvo, vince, coronato.”

Et notandum, quod ab humilitate per Columnam Amoris Dei et proximi ad Turrim Caritatis pertingitur, per virtutes etiam et rectitudinem vitæ ad Turrim Honoris <sup>7</sup> pervenitur; unde Johannes in Epistola sua ait;— <sup>8</sup> “ Sic Deus dilexit mundum, ut Filium suum

Ex scriptis namque quamplurimis satis claret quod monachi et doctores famosi fuerunt in Sancta Ecclesia, et prædicatores præcipui; quorum scriptis fides Catholica dilatatur, hæreticorum pravitas confutatur, et Sancta per orbem Ecclesia roboratur; nec uspiam invenies pene quemquem famosum doctorem Sanctæ Ecclesiæ, qui non vel monachus fuit, vel per monachos doctus primitus, et instructus. Revolve Vitas quorumlibet, et comperies, hujus assertionis meæ in voluminibus mille testes; et qui, precor, Studia totius mundi magis famosa prius inchoaverunt, et postea evexerunt, nisi monachi? Discipuli namque Sancti Bedæ, <sup>1</sup> presbyteri et monachi Jarienis, <sup>2</sup> Robanus, Alchuynus, Claudius, et Johannes Scotus, primum illud celebre Studium instituere Parisius, de quo postea tot doctores processerunt,— “ —Quot in æthere sidera lucent,

“ Parvaque quot siccus corpora pulvis habet.”

Expost, Studium toti orbi nominatissimum, Oxoniense dicto, quis fundavit, nisi nostri Ordinis professores? Pleymundus utique, Archiepiscopus Doroberniæ, et <sup>3</sup> Asseryon, Præsul Schireburniæ, Sanctusque Grumbaldus, Abbas de Hyda Wyntoniæ, sunt Oxoniensis Studii fundatores; quod usque in præsentem diem, velint nolint, sæculares clerici fateri coguntur; dum nullus Magistratus gradum intrare permittitur, nisi ocreatus et pulla chimera vestitus, in signum quod debent monachis pro sua institutione reverentiam, ut eis in colore habitus se conforment: et non solum Oxoniæ, sed et Cantebriggæ, prædicta consuetudo artissime observatur. Tempore namque maximæ persecutionis primitivæ Ecclesiæ, quo Christiani variis cruciatibus <sup>4</sup> martyrium pertulerunt, ecclesiæque, cum libris a diversis sanctis doctoribus, et <sup>5</sup> robur fidei, editis, destructioni et ignis discrimini patuerunt; monachi cum eisdem libris, undecunque collatis, heremum petierunt, herbis et radicibus victitantes, longo <sup>6</sup> martyrio mentis et corporis cruciati, usque cessaret persecutio ibidem, et aliis locis abditis permanserunt; sanctius arbitantes tantum thesaurum Ecclesiæ, posteris <sup>7</sup> profuturum, sua diligentia conservandum, quam vitam sanguinis <sup>8</sup> effusione martyrio terminandam. Unde pace Ecclesiæ reddita pro tanto beneficio, ab universali Ecclesia cæteris Ordinibus sunt prælati, juxta revelationem Beato Pachomio <sup>9</sup> divinitus ostensam, in perpetuum, Dei gratia, duraturi. De quo Ordine metricè sic dicitur,—

“Ordo fuit primus, erit ultimus, ut reperimus.”—

Pudeat igitur parvis religionis et habitus, licet non pares vitæ et scientiæ insignitos, tantos patres et præambulos parvipendere, quo etiam sæculares per multitudinem monasteriorum constructorum, et alia innumera beneficia, novimus honorare; prout in quodam tractatu <sup>10</sup> summario, de dignitate <sup>11</sup> monastici ordinis edito, suis locis plenius apparet.

[DE ALTARIBUS, MONUMENTIS, ET LOCIS SEPULCRORUM, IN ECCLESIA MONASTERII SANCTI ALBANI, QUÆDAM
ANNOTATIONES.]

Est ibidem in primis scrinium gloriosi Anglorum<sup>2</sup> Protomartyris Albani, super tumbam marmoream, operis egregii, nobiliter erectum. Infra autem est aliud scrinium, seu feretrum, multo pretiosius, reliquias infra continens, Die Ascensionis Dominicæ et ejus duabus annuis solemnitatibus, ac pro aliis arduis necessitatibus, in processionibus deportari<sup>3</sup> solitas. Qui inter cæteros mortuos liber in cœlestibus castris cum suo Rege gratulatur in gloria, præstans jugiter sua beneficia cunctis ejus opem devote poscentibus.

Ad cujus altare per honorabiliores Obedientiarios hujus monasterii, ordinatione Domini Johannis Moot, Missa de eodem cotidie celebratur; cum antiquis temporibus ibidem Missa Matutinalis habebatur:<sup>4</sup> in qua habetur Collecta, et specialis Memoria pro hujus monasterii benefactoribus et peregrinis; quibus insuper conceduntur nongenti anni, septuaginta dies, indulgentiæ perpetuo duraturæ. Cujus etiam Passionis et Inventionis series et miracula in libris hujus monasterii, inde confectis, plenius annotantur.

De duobus parvis Feretris.—Altare Reliquiarum.

Cæteræ vero Monasterii reliquiæ in altare Sancti Hugonis sunt reverenter, per industriam Fratris Roberti Trunche, in locellis diversis reparatæ, ac seris et clavibus, cum vectibus ferreis, perspicue conserratæ.

De Feretro Sancti Amphibali.

In <sup>1</sup> presbyterio vero Ecclesiæ, prope extremum gradum altaris, jacent quatuor Abbates hujus monasterii seriatim, sub lapidibus marmoreis, eorum epitaphiis insigniti; videlicet, Dominus Hugo Eversdon et Dominus Ricardus Walyngforde, horologiarius, medii, Dominus Michael Mentmore et Dominus Thomas de la Mare extremi; quorum laudes et beneficia in Libro Benefactorum et Gestis Abbatum perspicue sunt conscripta.<sup>2</sup>

Ex alia vero parte magni candelabri ibidem, propius chorum, jacent tres Abbates hujus monasterii, dictorum Abbatum prædecessores, cum eorum epitaphiis in lapidibus marmoreis <sup>3</sup> similiter impressis;—Dominus Johannes Marynes, Dominus Johannes Berkhamstede, et Dominus Rogerus Norton medius; cujus corpus coram altari Sanctæ Mariæ Quatuor <sup>4</sup> Cereorum, sub figura ejusdem effigiei tenendorum, fuerat tumulatum. Cætera vero corpora Abbatum hujus monasterii, ante Conquæstum, rabie Normannorum, ubi jacuerunt sunt nobis incognita; sed in Capitulo, sub relatione antiquorum patrum, <sup>5</sup> didicimus veraciter esse recondita; post Conquæstum vero Abbatum corpora sunt ibidem tumulata. In <sup>6</sup> ostio, videlicet, ipsius Capituli, Dominus Johannes Moot, sub lapide plano marmoreo, ipsius media figura et epitaphio decorato. Deinde versus Orientalem frontem, videlicet, ejusdem Capituli, jacent seriatim corpora quatuor Abbatum sub lapidibus marmoreis, cum <sup>7</sup> imaginibus et epitaphiis impressis, Dominus Garinus, sive Warinus, de Cantebrigia, Dominus Radulphus Gobyon, Dominus Willelmus Trumpyngton, et Dominus Johannes de Hertforde, quorum laudes et merita efferuntur ad poli sidera.

Circa medium vero ejusdem Capituli, in parte Australi, jacet Adam Wytنام, quondam Cellerarius, Forestarius, et Prior, hujus monasterii. Ex parte vero opposita ibidem jacet Magister Adam Rows, quondam Sirurgicus Regis Edwardi, a Conquæstu Tertii. Ex eadem parte, prope ostium Capituli, jacet Dominus <sup>4</sup> Adam Cellerarius, dictus athonomatice, "Lyons," sub lapide marmoreo clavibus super impressis; antiquo lapide, qui pavimento supereminebat, et ob hoc erat <sup>5</sup> transeuntibus offendiculum, amoto et in partem seposito; de quo abcidebantur olim scindulæ, in pulverem redactæ et potatæ, diversis infirmitatibus juxta <sup>6</sup> utentium valituræ.

As far back as the year 1800, a Committee of the House of Commons recommended that Indexes and Calendars should be made to the Public Records, and thirty-six years afterwards another Committee of the House of Commons reiterated that recommendation in more forcible words; but it was not until the incorporation of the State Paper Office with the Public Record Office that the present Master of the Rolls found himself in a position to take the necessary steps for carrying out the wishes of the House of Commons.

On 7 December 1855, he stated to the Lords of the Treasury that although “the Records, State Papers, and Documents in his charge constitute the most complete and perfect series of their kind in the civilized world,” and although “they are of the greatest value in a historical and constitutional point of view, yet they are comparatively useless to the public, from the want of proper Calendars and Indexes.”

Acting upon the recommendations of the Committees of the House of Commons above referred to, he suggested to the Lords of the Treasury that to effect the object he had in view it would be necessary for him to employ a few persons fully qualified to perform the work which he contemplated.

Their Lordships assented to the necessity of having Calendars prepared and printed, and empowered the Master of the Rolls to take such steps as might be necessary for this purpose.

The following Works have been already published under the direction of the Master of the Rolls :—

CALENDARIUM GENEALOGICUM ; for the Reigns of Henry III. and Edward I. Edited by CHARLES ROBERTS, Esq., Secretary of the Public Record Office. 2 Vols. 1865.

This is a work of great value for elucidating the early history of our nobility and landed gentry.

Mrs. Everett Green has completed a Calendar of the Domestic State Papers of the reign of James I. in four volumes. The mass of historical matter thus rendered accessible to investigation is large and important. It throws new light on the Gunpowder-plot; the rise and fall of Somerset; the particulars connected with the Overbury murder; the disgrace of Sir Edward Coke; and other matters connected with the reign.

Vol. I.—America and West Indies, 1574-1660.

Vol. II.—East Indies, China, and Japan, 1513-1616.

These volumes include an analysis of Colonial Papers in the Public Record Office, the India Office, and the British Museum. The third volume is in the press. The regular series of the East India Papers in the Public Record Office are calendared to the year 1623; those relating to the same subject in the Domestic Correspondence to 1625; in the Foreign Correspondence to 1621; the Court Minutes of the East India Company to 1621; and the Original Correspondence in the India Office to 1621. Many undated Papers have been dated and arranged.

CALENDAR OF LETTERS AND PAPERS, FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC, OF THE REIGN OF HENRY VIII., preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office, the British Museum, &c. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. 1862-1867.

Vol. I.—1509-1514.

Vol. II. (in Two Parts)—1515-1518.

Vol. III. (in Two Parts)—1519-1523.

These volumes contain summaries of all State Papers and Correspondence relating to the reign of Henry VIII., in the Public Record Office, of those formerly in the State Paper Office, in the British Museum, the Libraries of Oxford and Cambridge, and other Public Libraries; and of all letters that have appeared in print in the works of Burnet, Strype, and others. Whatever authentic original material exists in England relative to the religious, political, parliamentary, or social history of the country during the reign of Henry VIII., whether despatches of ambassadors, or proceedings of the army, navy, treasury, or ordinance, or records of Parliament, appointments of officers, grants from the Crown, &c., will be found calendared in these volumes.

CALENDAR OF STATE PAPERS, FOREIGN SERIES, OF THE REIGN OF EDWARD VI., preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. 1547-1553. Edited by W. B. TURNBULL, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, and Correspondant du Comité Impérial des Travaux Historiques et des Sociétés Savantes de France. 1861.

CALENDAR OF STATE PAPERS, FOREIGN SERIES, OF THE REIGN OF MARY, preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. 1553-1558. Edited by W. B. TURNBULL, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, and Correspondant du Comité Impérial des Travaux Historiques et des Sociétés Savantes de France. 1861.

The two preceding volumes exhibit the negotiations of the English ambassadors with the courts of the Emperor Charles V. of Germany, of Henry II. of France, and of Philip II. of Spain. The affairs of several of the minor continental states also find various incidental illustrations of much interest.

A valuable series of Papers descriptive of the circumstances which attended the loss of Calais merits a special notice; while the progress of the wars in the north of France, into which England was dragged by her union with Spain, is narrated at some length. The domestic affairs of England are of course passed over in these volumes, which treat only of its relations with foreign powers.

CALENDAR OF STATE PAPERS, FOREIGN SERIES, OF THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH, preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office, &c. Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham. 1863-1869.

Vol. I.—1558-1559.
Vol. II.—1559-1560.
Vol. III.—1560-1561.

Vol. IV.—1561-1562.
Vol. V.—1562.
Vol. VI.—1563.

These six volumes contain a calendar of the Foreign Correspondence of Queen Elizabeth, from her accession in 1558, to 1563, of which the originals, drafts, or contemporary copies, are deposited in the Public Record Office, &c. These documents are of the greatest value as exhibiting the position of England at one of the most interesting periods of history, in regard to its relations with France, Scotland, Spain, and Germany. They are of especial importance as illustrating not only the external but also the domestic affairs of France during the period which immediately preceded the outbreak of the first great war of religion under the Prince of Condé and the Duke of Guise.

CALENDAR OF TREASURY PAPERS, preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Vol. I.—1557-1696. Edited by JOSEPH REDINGTON, Esq. 1868.

The Papers connected with the administration of the affairs of the Treasury, from 1556-7 to 1696, comprising petitions, reports, and other documents relating to services rendered to the State, grants of money and pensions, appointments to offices, remissions of fines and duties, &c., are calendared in this volume. They illustrate civil and military events, financial and other matters, the administration in Ireland and the Colonies, &c., and afford information nowhere else recorded.

CALENDAR OF THE CAREW PAPERS, preserved in the Lambeth Library. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London; and WILLIAM BULLEN, Esq. 1867-1870.

Vol. I.—1515-1574.
Vol. II.—1575-1588.

Vol. III.—1589-1600.
Vol. IV.—1601-1603.

The Carew Papers relating to Ireland deposited in the Lambeth Library are not only unique in themselves, but are of great importance. Four volumes of the Calendar of these valuable Papers have been published, extending from 1515 to 1603, which cannot fail to be welcome to all students of Irish history. Another volume is in the press.

CALENDAR OF LETTERS, DESPATCHES, AND STATE PAPERS, relating to the Negotiations between England and Spain, preserved in the Archives at Simancas, and elsewhere. Edited by G. A. BERGENROTH. 1862-1868.

Vol. I.—Hen. VII.—1485-1509.
Vol. II.—Hen. VIII.—1509-1525.
Supplement to Vol. I. and Vol. II.

Mr. Bergenroth was engaged in compiling a Calendar of the Papers relating to England preserved in the archives of Simancas in Spain, and the corresponding portion removed from Simancas to Paris. Mr. Bergenroth also visited Madrid, and examined the Papers there, bearing on the reign of Henry VIII. The first volume contains the Spanish Papers of the reign of Henry VII.; the second volume, those of the first portion of the reign of Henry VIII. The Supplement contains new information relating to the private life of Queen Katharine of England; and to the projected marriage of Henry VII. with Queen Juana, widow of King Philip of Castile, and mother of the Emperor Charles V.

THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

---

[ROYAL 8vo., half-bound. Price 10s. each Volume or Part.]

On 25 July 1822, the House of Commons presented an address to the Crown, stating that the editions of the works of our ancient historians were inconvenient and defective; that many of their writings still remained in manuscript, and, in some cases, in a single copy only. They added, "that an uniform and convenient edition of the whole, published under His Majesty's royal sanction, would be an undertaking honourable to His Majesty's reign, and conducive to the advancement of historical and constitutional knowledge; that the House therefore humbly besought His Majesty, that He would be graciously pleased to give such directions as His Majesty, in His wisdom, might think fit, for the publication of a complete edition of the ancient historians of this realm, and assured His Majesty that whatever expense might be necessary for this purpose would be made good."

The Master of the Rolls, being very desirous that effect should be given to the resolution of the House of Commons, submitted to Her Majesty's Treasury in 1857 a plan for the publication of the ancient chronicles and memorials of the United Kingdom, and it was adopted accordingly. In selecting these works, it was considered right, in the first instance, to give preference to those of which the manuscripts were unique, or the materials of which would help to fill up blanks in English history for which no satisfactory and authentic information hitherto existed in any accessible form. One great object the Master of the Rolls had in view was to form a corpus historicum within reasonable limits, and which should be as complete as possible. In a subject of so vast a range, it was important that the historical student should be able to select such volumes as conformed with his own peculiar tastes and studies, and not be put to the expense of purchasing the whole collection; an inconvenience inseparable from any other plan than that which has been in this instance adopted.

Of the Chronicles and Memorials, the following volumes have been published. They embrace the period from the earliest time of British history down to the end of the reign of Henry VII.

1. THE CHRONICLE OF ENGLAND, by JOHN CAPGRAVE. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1858.

Capgrave was prior of Lynn, in Norfolk, and provincial of the order of the Friars Hermits of England shortly before the year 1464. His Chronicle extends from the creation of the world to the year 1417. As a record of the language spoken in Norfolk (being written in English), it is of considerable value.

2. CHRONICON MONASTERII DE ABINGDON. Vols. I. and II. Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham, and Vicar of Leighton Buzzard. 1858.

This Chronicle traces the history of the great Benedictine monastery of Abingdon in Berkshire, from its foundation by King Ina of Wessex, to the reign of Richard I., shortly after which period the present narrative was drawn up by an inmate of the establishment. The author had access to the title-deeds of the house; and incorporates into his history various charters of the Saxon kings, of great importance as illustrating not only the history of the locality but that of the kingdom. The work is printed for the first time.

3. LIVES OF EDWARD THE CONFESSOR. I.—La Estoire de Seint Aedward le Rei. II.—Vita Beati Edvardi Regis et Confessoris. III.—Vita Æduuardi Regis qui apud Westmonasterium requiescit. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1858.

The first is a poem in Norman French, containing 4,686 lines, addressed to Alianor, Queen of Henry III., and probably written in the year 1245, on the occasion of the restoration of the church of Westminster. Nothing is known of the author. The second is an anonymous poem, containing 536 lines, written between the years 1440 and 1450, by command of Henry VI., to whom it is dedicated. It does not throw any new light on the reign of Edward the Confessor, but is valuable as a specimen of the Latin poetry of the time. The third, also by an anonymous author, was apparently written for Queen Edith, between the years 1066 and 1074, during the pressure of the suffering brought on the Saxons by the Norman conquest. It notices many facts not found in other writers, and some which differ considerably from the usual accounts.

4. MONUMENTA FRANCISCANA; scilicet, I.—Thomas de Eccleston de Adventu Fratrum Minorum in Angliam. II.—Adæ de Marisco Epistolæ. III.—Registrum Fratrum Minorum Londoniæ. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. 1858.

This volume contains original materials for the history of the settlement of the order of Saint Francis in England, the letters of Adam de Marisco, and other papers connected with the foundation and diffusion of this great body. It has been the aim of the editor to collect whatever historical information could be found in this country, towards illustrating a period of the national history for which only scanty materials exist. None of these have been before printed.

5. FASCICULI ZIZANIORUM MAGISTRI JOHANNIS WYCLIF CUM TRITICO. Ascribed to THOMAS NETTER, of WALDEN, Provincial of the Carmelite Order in England, and Confessor to King Henry the Fifth. Edited by the Rev. W. W. SHIRLEY, M.A., Tutor and late Fellow of Wadham College, Oxford. 1858.

This work derives its principal value from being the only contemporaneous account of the rise of the Lollards. When written, the disputes of the school-men had been extended to the field of theology, and they appear both in the writings of Wycliff and in those of his adversaries. Wycliff's little bundles of tares are not less metaphysical than theological, and the conflict between Nominalists and Realists rages side by side with the conflict between the different interpreters of Scripture. The work gives a good idea of the controversies at the end of the 14th and the beginning of the 15th centuries.

6. THE BUIK OF THE CRONICLIS OF SCOTLAND ; or, A Metrical Version of the History of Hector Boece ; by WILLIAM STEWART. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by W. B. TURNBULL, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law. 1858.

This is a metrical translation of a Latin Prose Chronicle, and was written in the first half of the 16th century. The narrative begins with the earliest legends, and ends with the death of James I. of Scotland, and the "evil ending of the traitors that slew him." Strict accuracy of statement is not to be looked for in such a work as this ; but the stories of the colonization of Spain, Ireland, and Scotland are interesting if not true ; and the chronicle is valuable as a reflection of the manners, sentiments, and character of the age in which it was composed. The peculiarities of the Scottish dialect are well illustrated in this metrical version, and the student of language will find ample materials for comparison with the English dialects of the same period, and with modern lowland Scotch.

7. JOHANNIS CAPGRAVE LIBER DE ILLUSTRIBUS HENRICIS. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1858.

This work is dedicated to Henry VI. of England, who appears to have been, in the author's estimation, the greatest of all the Henries. It is divided into three distinct parts, each having its own separate dedication. The first part relates only to the history of the Empire, and extends from the election of Henry I., the Fowler, to the end of the reign of the Emperor Henry VI. The second part is devoted to English history, and extends from the accession of Henry I. in the year 1100, to the year 1446, which was the twenty-fourth year of the reign of King Henry VI. The third part contains the lives of illustrious men who have borne the name of Henry in various parts of the world.

Capgrave was born in 1393, in the reign of Richard II., and lived during the Wars of the Roses, for the history of which period his work is of some value.

8. HISTORIA MONASTERII S. AUGUSTINI CANTUARIENSIS, by THOMAS OF ELMHAM, formerly Monk and Treasurer of that Foundation. Edited by CHARLES HARDWICK, M.A., Fellow of St. Catharine's Hall, and Christian Advocate in the University of Cambridge. 1858.

This history extends from the arrival of St. Augustine in Kent until 1191. Prefixed is a chronology as far as 1418, which shows in outline what was to have been the character of the work when completed. The only copy known is in the possession of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. The author was connected with Norfolk, and most probably with Elmham, whence he derived his name.

9. EULOGIUM (HISTORIARUM SIVE TEMPORIS) : Chronicon ab Orbe condito usque ad Annum Domini 1366 ; a Monacho quodam Malmesbiriensi exaratum. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by F. S. HAYDON, Esq., B.A. 1858-1863.

This is a Latin Chronicle extending from the Creation to the latter part of the reign of Edward III., and written by a monk of the Abbey of Malmesbury, in Wiltshire, about the year 1367. A continuation, carrying the history of England down to the year 1413, was added in the former half of the fifteenth century by an author whose name is not known. The original Chronicle is divided into five books, and contains a history of the world generally, but more especially of England to the year 1366. The continuation extends the history down to the coronation of Henry V. The Eulogium itself is chiefly valuable as containing a history, by a contemporary, of the period between 1356 and 1366. The notices of events appear to have been written very soon after their occurrence. Among other interesting matter, the Chronicle contains a diary of the Poitiers campaign, evidently furnished by some person who accompanied the army of the Black Prince. The continuation of the Chronicle is also the work of a contemporary, and gives a very interesting account of the reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV. It is believed to be the earliest authority for the statement that the latter monarch died in the Jerusalem Chamber at Westminster.

10. MEMORIALS OF HENRY THE SEVENTH: Bernardi Andreae Tholosatis Vita Regis Henrici Septimi; necnon alia quædam ad eundem Regem spectantia. Edited by JAMES GAIRDNER, Esq. 1858.

The contents of these volumes are—(1) a life of Henry VII., by his poet laureate and historiographer, Bernard André, of Toulouse, with some compositions in verse, of which he is supposed to have been the author; (2) the journals of Roger Machado during certain embassies on which he was sent by Henry VII. to Spain and Brittany, the first of which had reference to the marriage of the King's son, Arthur, with Catharine of Arragon; (3) two curious reports by envoys sent to Spain in the year 1505 touching the succession to the Crown of Castile, and a project of marriage between Henry VII. and the Queen of Naples; and (4) an account of Philip of Castile's reception in England in 1506. Other documents of interest in connexion with the period are given in an appendix.

11. MEMORIALS OF HENRY THE FIFTH. I.—Vita Henrici Quinti, Roberto Redmanno auctore. II.—Versus Rhythmici in laudem Regis Henrici Quinti. III.—Elmhami Liber Metricus de Henrico V. Edited by CHARLES A. COLE, Esq. 1858.

This volume contains three treatises which more or less illustrate the history of the reign of Henry V., viz.: A Life by Robert Redman; a Metrical Chronicle by Thomas Elmham, prior of Lenton, a contemporary author; Versus Rhythmici, written apparently by a monk of Westminster Abbey, who was also a contemporary of Henry V. These works are printed for the first time.

12. MUNIMENTA GILDHALLÆ LONDONIENSIS; Liber Albus, Liber Custumarum, et Liber Horn, in archivis Gildhallæ asservati. Vol. I., Liber Albus. Vol. II. (in Two Parts), Liber Custumarum. Vol. III., Translation of the Anglo-Norman Passages in Liber Albus, Glossaries, Appendices, and Index. Edited by HENRY THOMAS RILEY, Esq., M.A., Barrister-at-Law. 1859–1862.

The manuscript of the Liber Albus, compiled by John Carpenter, Common Clerk of the City of London in the year 1419, a large folio volume, is preserved in the Record Room of the City of London. It gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of that City in the twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth, and early part of the fifteenth centuries.

The Liber Custumarum was compiled probably by various hands in the early part of the fourteenth century during the reign of Edward II. The manuscript, a folio volume, is also preserved in the Record Room of the City of London, though some portion in its original state, borrowed from the City in the reign of Queen Elizabeth and never returned, forms part of the Cottonian MS. Claudius D. II. in the British Museum. It also gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of the City of London in the twelfth, thirteenth, and early part of the fourteenth centuries.

13. CHRONICA JOHANNIS DE OXENEDES. Edited by Sir HENRY ELLIS, K.H. 1859.

Although this Chronicle tells of the arrival of Hengist and Horsa in England in the year 449, yet it substantially begins with the reign of King Alfred, and comes down to the year 1292, where it ends abruptly. The history is particularly valuable for notices of events in the eastern portions of the kingdom, which are not to be elsewhere obtained, and some curious facts are mentioned relative to the floods in that part of England, which are confirmed in the Friesland Chronicle of Anthony Heinrich, pastor of the Island of Mohr.

14. A COLLECTION OF POLITICAL POEMS AND SONGS RELATING TO ENGLISH HISTORY, FROM THE ACCESSION OF EDWARD III. TO THE REIGN OF HENRY VIII. Vols. I. and II. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A. 1859-1861.

These Poems are perhaps the most interesting of all the historical writings of the period, though they cannot be relied on for accuracy of statement. They are various in character; some are upon religious subjects, some may be called satires, and some give no more than a court scandal; but as a whole they present a very fair picture of society, and of the relations of the different classes to one another. The period comprised is in itself interesting, and brings us, through the decline of the feudal system, to the beginning of our modern history. The songs in old English are of considerable value to the philologist.

15. The "OPUS TERTIUM," "OPUS MINUS," &c., of ROGER BACON. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. 1859.

This is the celebrated treatise—never before printed—so frequently referred to by the great philosopher in his works. It contains the fullest details we possess of the life and labours of Roger Bacon: also a fragment by the same author, supposed to be unique, the "Compendium Studii Theologiæ."

16. BARTHOLOMÆI DE COTTON, MONACHI NORWICENSIS, HISTORIA ANGLICANA; 449-1298: necnon ejusdem Liber de Archiepiscopis et Episcopis Angliæ. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1859.

The author, a monk of Norwich, has here given us a Chronicle of England from the arrival of the Saxons in 449 to the year 1298, in or about which year it appears that he died. The latter portion of this history (the whole of the reign of Edward I. more especially) is of great value, as the writer was contemporary with the events which he records. An Appendix contains several illustrative documents connected with the previous narrative.

17. BRUT Y TYWYSOGION; or, The Chronicle of the Princes of Wales. Edited by the Rev. JOHN WILLIAMS AB ITHEL, M.A. 1860.

This work, also known as "The Chronicle of the Princes of Wales," has been attributed to Caradoc of Llancarvan, who flourished about the middle of the twelfth century. It is written in the ancient Welsh language, begins with the abdication and death of Caedwala at Rome, in the year 681, and continues the history down to the subjugation of Wales by Edward I., about the year 1282.

18. A COLLECTION OF ROYAL AND HISTORICAL LETTERS DURING THE REIGN OF HENRY IV. 1399-1404. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1860.

This volume, like all the others in the series containing a miscellaneous selection of letters, is valuable on account of the light it throws upon biographical history, and the familiar view it presents of characters, manners, and events. The period requires much elucidation; to which it will materially contribute.

19. THE REPRESSOR OF OVER MUCH BLAMING OF THE CLERGY. By REGINALD PECOCK, sometime Bishop of Chichester. Vols. I. and II. Edited by CHURCHILL BABINGTON, B.D., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1860.

The "Repressor" may be considered the earliest piece of good theological disquisition of which our English prose literature can boast. The author was born about the end of the fourteenth century, consecrated Bishop of St. Asaph in the year 1444, and translated to the see of Chichester in 1450. While Bishop of St. Asaph, he zealously defended his brother prelates from the attacks of those who censured the bishops for their neglect of duty. He maintained that it was no part of a bishop's functions to appear in the pulpit, and that his time might be more profitably spent, and his dignity better maintained, in the performance of works of a higher character. Among those who thought differently were the Lollards, and against their general doctrines the "Repressor" is directed. Pecock took up a position midway between that of the Roman Church and that of the modern Anglican Church; but his work is interesting chiefly because it gives a full account of the views of the Lollards and of the arguments by which they were supported, and because it assists us to ascertain the state of feeling which ultimately led to the Reformation. Apart from religious matters, the light thrown upon contemporaneous history is very small, but the "Repressor" has great value for the philologist, as it tells us what were the characteristics of the language in use among the cultivated Englishmen of the fifteenth century. Pecock, though an opponent of the Lollards, showed a certain spirit of toleration, for which he received, towards the end of his life, the usual mediæval reward—persecution.

20. ANNALES CAMBRIÆ. Edited by the Rev. JOHN WILLIAMS AB ITHEL, M.A. 1860.

These annals, which are in Latin, commence in the year 447, and come down to the year 1288. The earlier portion appears to be taken from an Irish Chronicle, which was also used by Tigernach, and by the compiler of the Annals of Ulster. During its first century it contains scarcely anything relating to Britain, the earliest direct concurrence with English history is relative to the mission of Augustine. Its notices throughout though brief, are valuable. The annals were probably written at St. Davids, by Blegewryd, Archdeacon of Llandaff, the most learned man in his day in all Cymru.

21. THE WORKS OF GIRALDUS CAMBRENSIS. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. Vols. V. and VI. Edited by the Rev. JAMES F. DIMOCK, M.A., Rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire. 1861–1868.

The first three volumes contain the historical works of Gerald du Barry, who lived in the reigns of Henry II., Richard I., and John, and attempted to re-establish the independence of Wales by restoring the see of St. Davids to its ancient primacy. His works are of a very miscellaneous nature, both in prose and verse, and are remarkable chiefly for the racy and original anecdotes which they contain relating to contemporaries. He is the only Welsh writer of any importance who has contributed so much to the mediæval literature of this country, or assumed, in consequence of his nationality, so free and independent a tone. His frequent travels in Italy, in France, in Ireland, and in Wales, gave him opportunities for observation which did not generally fall to the lot of mediæval writers in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, and of these observations Giraldus has made due use. Only extracts from these treatises have been printed before, and almost all of them are taken from unique manuscripts.

The Topographia Hibernica (in Vol. V.) is the result of Giraldus' two visits to Ireland. The first in the year 1183, the second in 1185–6, when he accompanied Prince John into that country. Curious as this treatise is, Mr. Dimock is of opinion that it ought not to be accepted as sober truthful history, for Giraldus himself states that truth was not his main object, and that he compiled the work for the purpose of sounding the praises of Henry the Second. Elsewhere, however, he declares that he had stated nothing in the Topographia of the truth of which he was not well assured, either by his own eyesight or by the testimony, with all diligence elicited, of the most trustworthy and authentic men in the country; that though he did not put just the same full faith in their reports as in what he had himself seen, yet, as they only related what they had themselves seen, he could not but believe such credible witnesses. A very interesting portion of this treatise is devoted to the animals of Ireland. It shows that he was a very accurate and acute observer, and his descriptions are given in a way that a scientific naturalist of the present day could hardly improve upon. The Expugnatio Hibernica was written about the year 1188, and may be regarded rather as a great epic than a sober relation of acts occurring in his own days. No one can peruse it without coming to the conclusion that it is rather a poetical fiction than a prosaic truthful history.

Vol. VI. contains the Itinerarium Kambriæ et Descriptio Kambriæ.

22. LETTERS AND PAPERS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE WARS OF THE ENGLISH IN FRANCE DURING THE REIGN OF HENRY THE SIXTH, KING OF ENGLAND. Vol. I., and Vol. II. (in Two Parts). Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham, and Vicar of Leighton Buzzard. 1861-1864.

The letters and papers contained in these volumes are derived chiefly from originals or contemporary copies extant in the Bibliothèque Impériale, and the Dépôt des Archives, in Paris. They illustrate the line of policy adopted by John Duke of Bedford and his successors during their government of Normandy, and such other provinces of France as had been acquired by Henry V. We may here trace, step by step, the gradual declension of the English power, until we are prepared to read of its final overthrow.

23. THE ANGLO-SAXON CHRONICLE, ACCORDING TO THE SEVERAL ORIGINAL AUTHORITIES. Vol. I., Original Texts. Vol. II., Translation. Edited and translated by BENJAMIN THORPE, Esq., Member of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Munich, and of the Society of Netherlandish Literature at Leyden. 1861.

This Chronicle, extending from the earliest history of Britain to the year 1154, is justly the boast of England; for no other nation can produce any history, written in its own vernacular, at all approaching it, either in antiquity, truthfulness, or extent, the historical books of the Bible alone excepted. There are at present six independent manuscripts of the Saxon Chronicle, ending in different years, and written in different parts of the country. In the present edition, the text of each manuscript is printed in columns on the same page, so that the student may see at a glance the various changes which occur in orthography, whether arising from locality or age.

24. LETTERS AND PAPERS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE REIGNS OF RICHARD III. AND HENRY VII. Vols. I. and II. Edited by JAMES GAIRDNER, Esq. 1861-1863.

The Papers are derived from MSS. in the Public Record Office, the British Museum, and other repositories. The period to which they refer is unusually destitute of chronicles and other sources of historical information, so that the light obtained from these documents is of special importance. The principal contents of the volumes are some diplomatic Papers of Richard III.; correspondence between Henry VII. and Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain; documents relating to Edmund de la Pole, Earl of Suffolk; and a portion of the correspondence of James IV. of Scotland.

25. LETTERS OF BISHOP GROSSETESTE, illustrative of the Social Condition of his Time. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1861.

The Letters of Robert Grosseteste (131 in number) are here collected from various sources, and a large portion of them is printed for the first time. They range in date from about 1210 to 1253, and relate to various matters connected not only with the political history of England during the reign of Henry III., but with its ecclesiastical condition. They refer especially to the diocese of Lincoln, of which Grosseteste was bishop.

26. DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE OF MANUSCRIPTS RELATING TO THE HISTORY OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND. Vol. I. (in Two Parts); Anterior to the Norman Invasion. Vol. II.; 1066-1200. By THOMAS DUFFUS HARDY, Esq., Deputy Keeper of the Public Records. 1862-1865.

The object of this work is to publish notices of all known sources of British history, both printed and unprinted, in one continued sequence. The materials, when historical (as distinguished from biographical), are arranged under the year in which the latest event is recorded in the chronicle or history, and not under the period in which its author, real or supposed, flourished. Biographies are enumerated under the year in which the person commemorated died, and not under the year in which the life was written. This arrangement has two advantages; the materials for any given period may be seen at a glance; and if the reader knows the time when an author wrote, and the number of years that had elapsed between the date of the events and the time the writer flourished, he will generally be enabled to form a fair estimate of the comparative value of the narrative itself. A brief analysis of each work has been added when deserving it, in which the original portions are distinguished from those which are mere compilations. When possible, the sources are indicated, from which such compilations have been derived. A biographical sketch of the author of each piece has been added, and a brief notice has also been given of such British authors as have written on historical subjects.

27. ROYAL AND OTHER HISTORICAL LETTERS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE REIGN OF HENRY III. Vol. I., 1216–1235. Vol. II., 1236–1272. Selected and edited by the Rev. W. W. SHIRLEY, D.D., Regius Professor in Ecclesiastical History, and Canon of Christ Church, Oxford. 1862–1866.

The letters contained in these volumes are derived chiefly from the ancient correspondence formerly in the Tower of London, and now in the Public Record Office. They illustrate the political history of England during the growth of its liberties, and throw considerable light upon the personal history of Simon de Montfort. The affairs of France form the subject of many of them, especially in regard to the province of Gascony. The entire collection consists of nearly 700 documents, the greater portion of which is printed for the first time.

28. CHRONICA MONASTERII S. ALBANI.—1. THOMÆ WALSINGHAM HISTORIA ANGLICANA; Vol. I., 1272–1381: Vol. II., 1381–1422. 2. WILLELMI RISHANGER CHRONICA ET ANNALES, 1259–1307. 3. JOHANNIS DE TROKELowe ET HENRICI DE BLANEFORDE CHRONICA ET ANNALES, 1259–1296; 1307–1324; 1392–1406. 4. GESTA ABBATUM MONASTERII S. ALBANI, A THOMA WALSINGHAM, REGNANTE RICARDO SECUNDO, EJUSDEM ECCLESIAE PRÆCENTORE, COMPILATA; Vol. I., 793–1290: Vol. II., 1290–1349: Vol. III., 1349–1411. 5. JOHANNIS AMUNDESHAM, MONACHI MONASTERII S. ALBANI, UT VIDETUR, ANNALES; Vol. I. Edited by HENRY THOMAS RILEY, Esq., M.A., of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; and of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law. 1863–1870.

In the first two volumes is a history of England, from the death of Henry III. to the death of Henry V., written by Thomas Walsingham, precentor of St. Albans and prior of the cell of Wymundham, belonging to that abbey. Walsingham's work is printed from MS. VII. in the Arundel Collection in the College of Arms, London, a manuscript of the fifteenth century, collated with MS. 13 E. IX. in the King's Library in the British Museum, and MS. VII. in the Parker Collection of Manuscripts at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

In the third volume is a Chronicle of English History, from 1259 to 1306 attributed to William Rishanger, monk of Saint Albans, who lived in the reign of Edward I., printed from the Cottonian Manuscript, Faustina B. IX. (of the fourteenth century) in the British Museum, collated with MS. 14 C. VII. (fols. 219–231) in the King's Library, British Museum, and the Cottonian Manuscript Claudius E. III., fols. 306–331: Also an account of transactions attending the award of the kingdom of Scotland to John Balliol by King Edward I., 1291–1292, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI., attributed to William Rishanger above mentioned, but on no sufficient ground: A short Chronicle of English History, from 1292 to 1300, by an unknown hand, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: A short Chronicle from 1297 to 1307, Willelmi Rishanger Gesta Edwardi Primi Regis Angliæ, from MS. 14 C. I. in the Royal Library, and MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI., with an addition of Annales Regum Angliæ, probably by the same hand: A fragment of a Chronicle of English History, 1299, 1300, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: A fragment of a Chronicle of English History, 1295 to 300, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI. : and a fragment of a Chronicle of English History, 1285 to 1307, from MS. 14 C. I. in the Royal Library.

In the fourth volume is a Chronicle of English History, by an anonymous writer, 1259 to 1296, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI. : Annals of King Edward II., 1307 to 1323, by John de Trokelowe, a monk of St. Albans, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI. : A continuation of Trokelowe's Annals, 1323, 1324, by Henricus de Blanforde, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI. : A full Chronicle of English History, by an anonymous writer of St. Albans, 1392 to 1406, from MS. VII. in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge ; and an account of the benefactors of St. Albans, written in the early part of the fifteenth century, from MS. VI. in the same Library.

The fifth, sixth, and seventh volumes (which form an entirely separate work), contain a history of the Abbots of St. Albans, and of the fortunes and vicissitudes of the house, from 793 to 1411, mainly compiled by Thomas Walsingham, Præcentor of the Abbey in the reign of Richard II., and transcribed from MS. Cotton. Claudius E. IV., in the British Museum ; with a brief Continuation of the History, extracted from the closing pages of the Parker MS. No. VII., in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

The eighth volume is in continuation of the Annals, containing a Chronicle, supposed to have been written by John Amundesham, a monk of that monastery.

29. CHRONICON ABBATIAE EVESHAMENSIS, AUCTORIBUS DOMINICO PRIORE EVESHAMIAE ET THOMA DE MARLEBERGE ABBATE, A FUNDATIONE AD ANNUM 1213, UNA CUM CONTINUATIONE AD ANNUM 1418. Edited by the Rev. W. D. MACRAY, M.A., Bodleian Library, Oxford. 1863.

The Chronicle of Evesham illustrates the history of that important monastery from its foundation by Egwin, about 690, to the year 1418. Its chief feature is an autobiography, which makes us acquainted with the inner daily life of a great abbey, such as but rarely has been recorded. Interspersed are many notices of general, personal, and local history which will be read with much interest. This work exists in a single MS., and is for the first time printed.

30. RICARDI DE CIRENCESTRIA SPECULUM HISTORIALE DE GESTIS REGUM ANGLIÆ. Vol. I., 447-871. Vol. II., 872-1066. Edited by JOHN E. B. MAYOR, M.A., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1863-1869.

The compiler, Richard of Cirencester, was a monk of Westminster, 1355-1400. In 1391 he obtained a licence to make a pilgrimage to Rome. His history, in four books, extends from 447 to 1066. He announces his intention of continuing it, but there is no evidence that he completed any more. This chronicle gives many charters in favour of Westminster Abbey, and a very full account of the lives and miracles of the saints, especially of Edward the Confessor, whose reign occupies the fourth book. A treatise on the Coronation, by William of Sudbury, a monk of Westminster, fills book iii. c. 3. It was on this author that C. J. Bertram fathered his forgery, De Situ Britannia, in 1747.

31. YEAR BOOKS OF THE REIGN OF EDWARD THE FIRST. Years 20-21, 30-31, and 32-33. Edited and translated by ALFRED JOHN HORWOOD, Esq., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law. 1863-1866.

The volumes known as the "Year Books" contain reports in Norman-French of cases argued and decided in the Courts of Common Law. They may be considered to a great extent as the "lex non scripta" of England, and have been held in the highest veneration by the ancient sages of the law, and were received by them as the repositories of the first recorded judgments and dicta of the great legal luminaries of past ages. They are also worthy of the attention of the general reader on account of the historical information and the notices of public and private persons which they contain, as well as the light which they throw on ancient manners and customs.

32. NARRATIVES OF THE EXPULSION OF THE ENGLISH FROM NORMANDY ; : 1449-1450.—Robertus Blondelli de Reductione Normannia : Le Recouvrement de Normandie, par Berry, Hérault du Roy : Conférences.

between the Ambassadors of France and England. Edited, from MSS. in the Imperial Library at Paris, by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham. 1863.

This volume contains the narrative of an eye-witness who details with considerable power and minuteness the circumstances which attended the final expulsion of the English from Normandy in the year 1450. The history commences with the infringement of the truce by the capture of Fougères, and ends with the battle of Formigny and the embarkation of the Duke of Somerset. The whole period embraced is less than two years.

33. HISTORIA ET CARTULARIUM MONASTERII S. PETRI GLOUCESTRÆ. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by W. H. HART, Esq., F.S.A., Membre correspondant de la Société des Antiquaires de Normandie. 1863–1867.

This work consists of two parts, the History and the Cartulary of the Monastery of St. Peter, Gloucester. The history furnishes an account of the monastery from its foundation, in the year 681, to the early part of the reign of Richard II., together with a calendar of donations and benefactions. It treats principally of the affairs of the monastery, but occasionally matters of general history are introduced. Its authorship has generally been assigned to Walter Froucester, the twentieth abbot, but without any foundation.

34. ALEXANDRI NECKAM DE NATURIS RERUM LIBRI DUO ; with NECKAM'S POEM, DE LAUDIBUS DIVINÆ SAPIENTIÆ. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A. 1863.

Neckam was a man who devoted himself to science, such as it was in the twelfth century. In the "De Naturis Rerum" are to be found what may be called the rudiments of many sciences mixed up with much error and ignorance. Neckam was not thought infallible, even by his contemporaries, for Roger Bacon remarks of him, "this Alexander in many things wrote what was true and useful : " but he neither can nor ought by just title to be reckoned among authorities." Neckam, however, had sufficient independence of thought to differ from some of the schoolmen who in his time considered themselves the only judges of literature. He had his own views in morals, and in giving us a glimpse of them, as well as of his other opinions, he throws much light upon the manners, customs, and general tone of thought prevalent in the twelfth century. The poem entitled "De Laudibus Divinæ Sapientiæ" appears to be a metrical paraphrase or abridgment of the "De Naturis Rerum." It is written in the elegiac metre ; and though there are many lines which violate classical rules, it is, as a whole, above the ordinary standard of mediæval Latin.

35. LEECHDOMS, WORTCUNNING, AND STARCRAFT OF EARLY ENGLAND ; being a Collection of Documents illustrating the History of Science in this Country before the Norman Conquest. Vols. I., II., and III. Collected and edited by the Rev. T. OSWALD COCKAYNE, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1864–1866.

This work illustrates not only the history of science, but the history of superstition. In addition to the information bearing directly upon the medical skill and medical faith of the times, there are many passages which incidentally throw light upon the general mode of life and ordinary diet. The volumes are interesting not only in their scientific, but also in their social aspect. The manuscripts from which they have been printed are valuable to the Anglo-Saxon scholar for the illustrations they afford of Anglo-Saxon orthography.

36. ANNALES MONASTICI. Vol. I. :—Annales de Margan, 1066–1232 ; Annales de Theokesberia, 1066–1263 ; Annales de Burton, 1004–1263. Vol. II. :—Annales Monasterii de Wintonia, 519–1277 ; Annales Monasterii de Waverleia, 1–1291. Vol. III. :—Annales Prioratus de Dunstaplia, 1–1297 ; Annales Monasterii de Bermundeseia, 1042–1432. Vol. IV. :—Annales Monasterii de Oseneia, 1016–1347 ; Chronicon vulgo dictum Chronicon Thomæ Wykes, 1066–1289 ; Annales Prioratus de

Wigornia, 1-1377. Vol. V. :—Index and Glossary. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, and Registry of the University, Cambridge. 1864-1869.

The present collection of Monastic Annals embraces all the more important chronicles compiled in religious houses in England during the thirteenth century. These distinct works are ten in number. The extreme period which they embrace ranges from the year 1 to 1432, although they refer more especially to the reigns of John, Henry III., and Edward I. Some of these narratives have already appeared in print, but others are printed for the first time.

37. MAGNA VITA S. HUGONIS EPISCOPI LINCOLNIENSIS. From Manuscripts in the Bodleian Library, Oxford, and the Imperial Library, Paris. Edited by the Rev. JAMES F. DIMOCK, M.A., Rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire. 1864.

This work contains a number of very curious and interesting incidents, and, being the work of a contemporary, is very valuable, not only as a truthful biography of a celebrated ecclesiastic, but as the work of a man, who, from personal knowledge, gives notices of passing events, as well as of individuals who were then taking active part in public affairs. The author, in all probability, was Adam Abbot of Evesham. He was domestic chaplain and private confessor of Bishop Hugh, and in these capacities he was admitted to the closest intimacy. Bishop Hugh was Prior of Witham for 11 years before he became Bishop of Lincoln. His consecration took place on the 21st September 1186 ; he died on the 16th of November 1200 ; and was canonized in 1220.

38. CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF THE REIGN OF RICHARD THE FIRST. Vol. I. :—ITINERARIUM PEREGRINORUM ET GESTA REGIS RICARDI. Vol. II. :—EPISTOLÆ CANTUARIENSES ; the Letters of the Prior and Convent of Christ Church, Canterbury ; 1187 to 1199. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Vicar of Navestock, Essex, and Lambeth Librarian. 1864-1865.

The authorship of the Chronicle in Vol. I., hitherto ascribed to Geoffrey Vinesauf, is now more correctly ascribed to Richard, Canon of the Holy Trinity of London. The narrative extends from 1187 to 1199 ; but its chief interest consists in the minute and authentic narrative which it furnishes of the exploits of Richard I., from his departure from England in December 1189 to his death in 1199. The author states in his prologue that he was an eye-witness of much that he records ; and various incidental circumstances which occur in the course of the narrative confirm this assertion.

The letters in Vol. II., written between 1187 and 1199, are of value as furnishing authentic materials for the history of the ecclesiastical condition of England during the reign of Richard I. They had their origin in a dispute which arose from the attempts of Baldwin and Hubert, archbishops of Canterbury, to found a college of secular canons, a project which gave great umbrage to the monks of Canterbury, who saw in it a design to supplant them in their function of metropolitan chapter. These letters are printed, for the first time, from a MS. belonging to the archiepiscopal library at Lambeth.

39. RECUEIL DES CRONIQUES ET ANCHIENNES ISTORIES DE LA GRANT BRETAGNE A PRESENT NOMME ENGLETERRE, par JEHAN DE WAURIN. Vol. I., Albina to 688. Vol. II., 1399-1422. Edited by WILLIAM HARDY, Esq., F.S.A. 1864-1868.

40. A COLLECTION OF THE CHRONICLES AND ANCIENT HISTORIES OF GREAT BRITAIN, NOW CALLED ENGLAND, by JOHN DE WAURIN. Albina to 688. (Translation of the preceding Vol. I.) Edited and translated by WILLIAM HARDY, Esq., F.S.A. 1864.

This curious chronicle extends from the fabulous period of history down to the return of Edward IV. to England in the year 1471, after the second deposition of Henry VI. The manuscript from which the text of the work is taken is preserved in the Imperial Library at Paris, and is believed to be the only complete and nearly contemporary copy in existence. The work, as originally bound, was comprised in six volumes, since rebound in morocco in 12 volumes, folio maximo, vellum, and is illustrated with exquisite miniatures, vignettes, and initial letters. It was written towards the end of the fifteenth century, having been expressly executed for Louis de Bruges, Seigneur de la Gruthuyse and Earl of Winchester, from whose cabinet it passed into the library of Louis XII. at Blois.

41. POLYCHRONICON RANULPHI HIGDEN, with Trevisa's Translation. Vols. I. and II. Edited by CHURCHILL BABINGTON, B.D., Senior Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1865-1869.

This is one of the many mediæval chronicles which assume the character of a history of the world. It begins with the creation, and is brought down to the author's own time, the reign of Edward III. Prefixed to the historical portion, is a chapter devoted to geography, in which is given a description of every known land. To say that the Polychronicon was written in the fourteenth century is to say that it is not free from inaccuracies. It has, however, a value apart from its intrinsic merits. It enables us to form a very fair estimate of the knowledge of history and geography which well-informed readers of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries possessed, for it was then the standard work on general history.

The two English translations, which are printed with the original Latin, afford interesting illustrations of the gradual change of our language, for one was made in the fourteenth century, the other in the fifteenth. The differences between Trevisa's version and that of the unknown writer are often considerable.

42. LE LIVRE DE REIS DE BRITTANIE E LE LIVRE DE REIS DE ENGLETERE. Edited by JOHN GLOVER, M.A., Vicar of Brading, Isle of Wight, formerly Librarian of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1865.

These two treatises, though they cannot rank as independent narratives, are nevertheless valuable as careful abstracts of previous historians, especially "Le Livre de Reis de Engleterre." Some various readings are given which are interesting to the philologist as instances of semi-Saxonized French.

It is supposed that Peter of Ickham must have been the author, but no certain conclusion on that point has been arrived at.

43. CRONICA MONASTERII DE MELSA, AB ANNO 1150 USQUE AD ANNUM 1406. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by EDWARD AUGUSTUS BOND, Esq., Assistant Keeper of the Manuscripts, and Egerton Librarian, British Museum. 1866-1868.

The Abbey of Meaux was a Cistercian house, and the work of its abbot is both curious and valuable. It is a faithful and often minute record of the establishment of a religious community, of its progress in forming an ample revenue, of its struggles to maintain its acquisitions, and of its relations to the governing institutions of the country. In addition to the private affairs of the monastery, some light is thrown upon the public events of the time, which are however kept distinct, and appear at the end of the history of each abbot's administration. The text has been printed from what is said to be the autograph of the original compiler, Thomas de Burton, the nineteenth abbot.

44. MATTHÆI PARISIENSIS HISTORIA ANGLORUM, SIVE, UT VULGO DICITUR, HISTORIA MINOR. Vols. I., II., and III. 1067-1253. Edited by Sir FREDERIC MADDEN, K.H., Keeper of the Department of Manuscripts, British Museum. 1866-1869.

The exact date at which this work was written is, according to the chronicler, 1250. The history is of considerable value as an illustration of the period during which the author lived, and contains a good summary of the events which followed the Conquest. This minor chronicle is, however, based on another work (also written by Matthew Paris) giving fuller details, which has been called the 'Historia Major.' The chronicle here published, nevertheless, gives some information not to be found in the greater history.

45. LIBER MONASTERII DE HYDA: A CHRONICLE AND CHARTULARY OF HYDE ABBEY, WINCHESTER, 455-1023. Edited, from a Manuscript in the Library of the Earl of Macclesfield, by EDWARD EDWARDS, Esq. 1866.

The "Book of Hyde" is a compilation from much earlier sources, which are usually indicated with considerable care and precision. In many cases, however, the Hyde chronicler appears to correct, to qualify, or to amplify—either from tradition or from sources of information not now discoverable—the statements which, in substance, he adopts. He also mentions, and frequently quotes from, writers whose works are either entirely lost or at present known only by fragments.

There is to be found, in the "Book of Hyde," much information relating to the reign of King Alfred which is not known to exist elsewhere. The volume contains some curious specimens of Anglo-Saxon and Mediæval English.

46. CHRONICON SCOTORUM: A CHRONICLE OF IRISH AFFAIRS, from the EARLIEST TIMES to 1135; with a SUPPLEMENT, containing the Events from 1141 to 1150. Edited, with a Translation, by WILLIAM MAUNSELL HENNESSY, Esq., M.R.I.A. 1866.

There is, in this volume, a legendary account of the peopling of Ireland and of the adventures which befell the various heroes who are said to have been connected with Irish history. The details are, however, very meagre both for this period and for the time when history becomes more authentic. The plan adopted in the chronicle gives the appearance of an accuracy to which the earlier portions of the work cannot have any claim. The succession of events is marked, year by year, from A.M. 1599 to A.D. 1150. The principal events narrated in the later portion of the work are the invasions of foreigners and the wars of the Irish among themselves. The text has been printed from a MS. preserved in the library of Trinity College, Dublin, written partly in Latin, partly in Irish.

47. THE CHRONICLE OF PIERRE DE LANGTOFT, IN FRENCH VERSE, FROM THE EARLIEST PERIOD TO THE DEATH OF EDWARD I. Vols. I. and II. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A. 1866-1868.

It is probable that Pierre de Langtoft was a canon of Bridlington, in Yorkshire, and that he lived in the reign of Edward I., and during a portion of the reign of Edward II. This chronicle is divided into three parts; in the first is an abridgment of Geoffrey of Monmouth's "Historia Britonum," in the second, a history of the Anglo-Saxon and Norman kings, down to the death of Henry III., and in the third a history of the reign of Edward I. The principal object of the work was apparently to show the justice of Edward's Scottish wars. The language is singularly corrupt, and a curious specimen of the French of Yorkshire.

48. THE WAR OF THE GAEDHIL WITH THE GAILL, or, THE INVASIONS OF IRELAND BY THE DANES AND OTHER NORSEMEN. Edited, with a Translation, by JAMES HENTHORN TODD, D.D., Senior Fellow of Trinity College, and Regius Professor of Hebrew in the University, Dublin. 1867.

The work in its present form, in the editor's opinion, is a comparatively modern version of an undoubtedly ancient original. That it was compiled from contemporary materials has been proved by curious incidental evidence. It is stated in the account given of the battle of Clontarf that the full tide in Dublin Bay on the day of the battle (23 April 1014) coincided with sunrise; and that the returning tide in the evening aided considerably in the defeat of the Danes. The fact has been verified by astronomical calculations, and the inference is that the author of the chronicle, if not himself an eye-witness, must have derived his information from those who were eye-witnesses. The contents of the work are sufficiently described in its title. The story is told after the manner of the Scandinavian Sagas, with poems and fragments of poems introduced into the prose narrative.

49. GESTA REGIS HENRICI SECUNDI BENEDICTI ABBATIS. THE CHRONICLE OF THE REIGNS OF HENRY II. AND RICHARD I., 1169–1192; known under the name of BENEDICT OF PETERBOROUGH. Vols. I. and II. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, Oxford, and Lambeth Librarian. 1867.

This chronicle of the reigns of Henry II. and Richard I., known commonly under the name of Benedict of Peterborough, is one of the best existing specimens of a class of historical compositions of the first importance to the student.

50. MUNIMENTA ACADEMICA, OR, DOCUMENTS ILLUSTRATIVE OF ACADEMICAL LIFE AND STUDIES AT OXFORD (in Two Parts). Edited by the Rev. HENRY ANSTEY, M.A., Vicar of St. Wendron, Cornwall, and lately Vice-Principal of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. 1868.

This work will supply materials for a History of Academical Life and Studies in the University of Oxford during the 13th, 14th, and 15th centuries.

51. CHRONICA MAGISTRI ROGERI DE HOUEDENE. Vols. I. and II. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1868–1869.

This work has long been justly celebrated, but not thoroughly understood until Mr. Stubbs' edition. The earlier portion, extending from 732 to 1148, appears to be a copy of a compilation made in Northumbria about 1161, to which Hoveden added little. From 1148 to 1169—a very valuable portion of this work—the matter is derived from another source, to which Hoveden appears to have supplied little, and not always judiciously. From 1170 to 1192 is the portion which corresponds with the Chronicle known under the name of Benedict of Peterborough (see No. 49); but it is not a copy, being sometimes an abridgment, at others a paraphrase; occasionally the two works entirely agree, showing that both writers had access to the same materials, but dealt with them differently. From 1192 to 1201 may be said to be wholly Hoveden's work; it is extremely valuable, and an authority of the first importance.

WORKS PUBLISHED IN PHOTOZINCOGRAPHY

DOMESDAY BOOK, or the GREAT SURVEY OF ENGLAND OF WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR, 1086 ; fac-simile of the Part relating to each county, separately (with a few exceptions of double counties). Photozincographed, by Her Majesty's Command, at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton, Colonel SIR HENRY JAMES, R.E., F.R.S., &c., Director. 35 Parts, imperial quarto and demy quarto (1861-1863) boards. Price 4s. 6d. to 17. 1s. each Part, according to size ; or, bound in 2 Vols., 18l.

This important and unique survey of the greater portion of England* is the oldest and most valuable record in the national archives. It was commenced about the year 1084 and finished in 1086. Its compilation was determined upon at Gloucester by William the Conqueror, in council, in order that he might know what was due to him, in the way of tax, from his subjects, and that each at the same time might know what he had to pay. It was compiled as much for their protection as for the benefit of the sovereign. The nobility and people had been grievously distressed at the time by the king bringing over large numbers of French and Bretons, and quartering them on his subjects, "each according to the measure of his land," for the purpose of resisting the invasion of Cnut, King of Denmark, which was apprehended. The commissioners appointed to make the survey were to inquire the name of each place ; who held it in the time of King Edward the Confessor ; the present possessor ; how many hides were in the manor ; how many ploughs were in demesne ; how many homagers ; how many villeins ; how many cottars ; how many serving men ; how many free tenants ; how many tenants in soccage ; how much wood, meadow, and pasture ; the number of mills and fish-ponds ; what had been added or taken away from the place ; what was the gross value in the time of Edward the Confessor ; the present value ; and how much each free man or soc-man had, and whether any advance could be made in the value. Thus could be ascertained who held the estate in the time of King Edward ; who then held it ; its value in the time of the late king ; and its value as it stood at the formation of the survey. So minute was the survey, that the writer of the contemporary portion of the Saxon Chronicle records, with some asperity—"So very narrowly he caused it to be traced out, that there was not a single hide, nor one virgate of land, nor even, "it is shame to tell, though it seemed to him no shame to do, an ox, nor a cow, nor a swine was left, that was not set down."

Domesday Survey is in two parts or volumes. The first, in folio, contains the counties of Bedford, Berks, Bucks, Cambridge, Chester and Lancaster, Cornwall, Derby, Devon, Dorset, Gloucester, Hants, Hereford, Herts, Huntingdon, Kent, Leicester and Rutland, Lincoln, Middlesex, Northampton, Nottingham, Oxford, Salop, Somerset, Stafford, Surrey, Sussex, Warwick, Wilts, Worcester, and York. The second volume, in quarto, contains the counties of Essex, Norfolk, and Suffolk.

Domesday Book was printed verbatim et literatim during the last century, in consequence of an address of the House of Lords to King George III. in 1767. It was not, however, commenced until 1773, and was completed early in 1783. In 1860, Her Majesty's Government, with the concurrence of the Master of the Rolls, determined to apply the art of photozincography to the production of a fac-simile of Domesday Book, under the superintendence of Colonel Sir Henry James, R.E., director of the Ordnance Survey, Southampton. The fac-simile was completed in 1863.

*For some reason left unexplained, many parts were left unsurveyed ; Northumberland, Cumberland, Westmoreland, and Durham, are not described in the survey ; nor does Lancashire appear under its proper name ; but Furness, and the northern part of Lancashire, as well as the south of Westmoreland, with a part of Cumberland, are included within the West Riding of Yorkshire. That part of Lancashire which lies between the Ribble and Mersey, and which at the time of the survey comprehended 688 manors, is joined to Cheshire. Part of Rutland is described in the counties of Northampton and Lincoln.

FAC-SIMILES of NATIONAL MANUSCRIPTS, from WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR to QUEEN ANNE, selected under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, and Photozincographed, by Command of Her Majesty, by Colonel SIR HENRY JAMES, R.E., Director of the Ordnance Survey. Price, each Part, double foolscap folio, with translations and notes, 1*l.* 1*s.*

Part I. (William the Conqueror to Henry VII.). 1865.

Part II. (Henry VIII. and Edward VI.). 1866.

Part III. (Mary and Elizabeth). 1867.

Part IV. (James I. to Anne). 1868.

The first Part extends from William the Conqueror to Henry VII., and contains autographs of the kings of England, as well as of many other illustrious personages famous in history, and some interesting charters, letters patent, and state papers. The second Part, for the reigns of Henry VIII. and Edward VI., consists principally of holograph letters and autographs of kings, princes, statesmen, and other persons of great historical interest, who lived during those reigns. The third Part contains similar documents for the reigns of Mary and Elizabeth, including a signed bill of Lady Jane Grey. The fourth Part concludes the series, and comprises a number of documents taken from the originals belonging to the Constable of the Tower of London; also several records illustrative of the Gunpowder Plot, and a woodcut containing portraits of Mary Queen of Scots and James VI., circulated by their adherents in England, 1580-3.
